

CONTENTS

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS	xi
INTRODUCTION	xv
PART ONE
I. THE PROJECT	i
i. The Retrieval of the Past	i
ii. Composition and Composure	4
iii. Kant	9
iv. Schiller	11
II. HEGEL	17
i. A Prelude to the Aesthetics	17
ii. The Historical Stages of Art	20
iii. The Recovery of Past Art for the Philosophy of the Present	26
iv. Rumohr's Response to Hegel	27
III. SCHNAASE'S PROTOTYPE OF CRITICAL HISTORY	31
i. The Synoptic View	31
ii. The Continuous Transformation of Art	33
iii. The Disregard of Function	40
iv. Art as Culturally Autonomous: A Response to Hegel	40
v. The Convergence of Critical Examples	42
IV. FROM SEMPER TO GÖLLER	44
i. Visual Meaning	45
ii. Fiction and Function	51
iii. Historical Continuity	52
iv. The Motif Theory of Style and the Motivation of Change	55
PART TWO
INTRODUCTION TO PART TWO	61
i. Interpretative Vision	61

THE CRITICAL HISTORIANS OF ART

ii. The Problem of Painting	62
iii. The Self-Transformation of Art	68
iv. The Changed Relation to the Past	68
V. RIEGL	71
i. Relief Sculpture	73
ii. Architecture in Late Antiquity	76
iii. The Dutch Group Portrait	81
iv. Senses of Artistic Intention	95
VI. WÖLFFLIN AND CLASSIC ART	98
i. Renaissance and Baroque	99
ii. The Teleology of the Triumphal Arch	106
iii. Wölfflin, Burckhardt and the High Renaissance	110
VII. THE PRINCIPLES AND ITS PROBLEMS	117
i. The Descriptive Scheme	117
ii. The Separation of Visual Tradition	129
iii. The Transformation of Art Through History	133
iv. The Cyclic Theory and the Generalisation Across the Visual Arts	138
v. Criticisms of Wölfflin's Treatment of Architecture: Schmarsow and Frankl	143
vi. Conclusion	149
VIII. FROM SPRINGER TO WARBURG	152
i. Springer's Rejection of Hegel	152
ii. Springer's Alternative Aesthetics	154
iii. Warburg and Botticelli's Mythologies	158
iv. The Milieu of Merchants and the Sassetti Chapel	164
v. Art and Superstition	168
vi. The Role of Classical Art	174
vii. Warburg and Pictorial Behaviour	176
IX. PANOFSKY	178
i. The Systematic Strategy	180
ii. The Adaptive Strategy	185
iii. The Perspective Paper	186
iv. The Theory of Human Proportions	189
v. The Relation of Images and Concepts	192

CONTENTS

X. THE TRADITION REVIEWED	209
i. The Problems of Systematic Interpretation	209
ii. The Separation of Functions and Features	210
iii. On the Multiplicity of Viewpoints	213
iv. The Retrieval of the Past	214
v. The Mind's Autonomy	215
NOTES	218
BIBLIOGRAPHY	251
INDEX	255