

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	ii
1. Gazing into the abyss	1
2. Climate chaos: black swan or white swan?	6
3. Technological seductions	9
4. Geo-engineering and the precautionary principle	12
5. Debating climate change deniers—or not?	17
6. The god of green growth has forsaken us	21
7. Civil disobedience and the Extinction Rebellion	25
8. Politics and spirituality	30
9. Resolving poverty: ‘development’ or post-development?	34
10. Technology after Empire	41
11. The ‘information deficit’ model of change	45
12. The role of ‘teacher’ in a dying civilisation	49
13. Crisis as opportunity	52
14. Sterility of imagination	61
15. The existential void consumerism cannot fill	64
16. Culture and political economy	68
17. The beginning is near	75
Postscriptum: Helena Norberg-Hodge	80
Endnotes	86