

Taxation of Shipping and Air Transport in Domestic Law, EU Law and Tax Treaties edited by

Prof. Guglielmo Maisto

Vol. 15
EC and International Tax Law Series

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements		v
Foreword		vii
Part One
Shipping and Air Transport under Domestic Law
Chapter 1:	Direct Taxation of Air Transport Activities	3
	Alexander Hemmelrath and Lars Marquardsen
1.1.	Key challenge regarding taxation of international air transport activities	3
1.2.	Categorization of income	4
1.3.	Taxation of the income	5
1.4.	Cross-border aspects	7
1.4.1.	Resident taxpayers	7
1.4.1.1.	General observations	7
1.4.1.2.	Concept of residence	7
1.4.1.3.	Domestic solution of double taxation of resident enterprises	8
1.4.2.	Non-resident taxpayers	10
1.4.2.1.	General observations	10
1.4.2.2.	The relevance of permanent establishments	13
1.4.2.3.	Reciprocal tax exemptions	15
1.5.	Conclusions	16
Chapter 2:	Taxation of Shipping Transport Activities (including Tonnage Tax Systems)	17
	Ton Stevens
2.1.	Introduction	17
2.2.	Ordinary regimes/Categorization of the income	19
2.2.1.	Ordinary regimes	19
2.2.2.	Categorization of the income	19
2.3.	Special regimes	20
2.3.1.	Overview	20
2.3.2.	Tonnage tax regimes	21
2.3.2.1.	Introduction	21

Table of Contents

2.3.2.2.	Legal forms/flag requirements/lock-in period	22
2.3.2.3.	Qualifying activities	23
2.3.2.4.	Qualifying vessels	24
2.3.2.5.	Ownership	25
2.3.2.6.	Eligible income	26
2.3.2.7.	Level of management	27
2.3.2.8.	Summary/conclusions	28
2.4.	Cross-border aspects	30
2.4.1.	Introduction	30
2.4.2.	Non-resident taxpayers with domestic-source income	30
2.4.3.	Resident taxpayers with foreign-source income	33
2.4.4.	Interlinkage between domestic law and tax treaty law	34
2.4.4.1.	Relationship between TT regimes and article 2 OECD Model	34
2.4.4.2.	Use of the same terms/concepts in both national tax laws and tax treaty law	35
2.4.4.3.	Impact of the extension of TT systems to new vessel types	35
2.5.	Summary/Conclusions	36

Part Two

EU Law and VAT Aspects of Shipping and Air Transport

Chapter 3:	Tonnage Tax and EU law	41
	Dennis Weber and Maurits van de Sande
3.1.	Introduction	41
3.2.	State aid framework	42
3.2.1.	State aid prohibition (article 107 TFEU)	42
3.2.1.1.	Requirements for State aid	42
3.2.1.2.	Authorization of State aid based on the development of certain economic activities or certain economic areas	43
3.2.2.	Review of State aid measures (article 108 TFEU)	44
3.2.3.	Community guidelines on State aid to maritime transport (1989/1997/2004)	45
3.2.3.1.	1989 Guidelines	45
3.2.3.2.	1997 Guidelines	46
3.2.3.3.	2004 Guidelines	48

3.2.4.	State aid decisions of the European Commission	50
3.2.4.1.	Service vessels	50
3.2.4.2.	Profit apportionment	51
3.2.4.3.	Financial income	52
3.2.4.4.	Time charter	53
3.3.	Tax benefits linking to (EU) nationality versus the EU Treaty freedoms	54
3.3.1.	Introduction	54
3.3.2.	Commission v. Netherlands case	55
3.3.3.	Lessons learned	56
3.4.	Shipping in the CCTB and CCCTB	58
3.5.	Concluding remarks	59
Chapter 4:	Shipping and Air Transport Industry VAT	61
	Stefan Maunz
4.1.	Introduction	61
4.2.	Supply of service in the case of unused tickets	61
4.2.1.	Qantas Airways Ltd	62
4.2.2.	Opinion of the VAT Committee	62
4.2.3.	ECJ Air France – KLM	63
4.3.	Place of supply	64
4.3.1.	Passenger transport	64
4.3.2.	Cargo transport	65
4.4.	Exemptions	65
4.4.1.	Output supplies	65
4.4.2.	Input supplies	66
4.5.	Summary	70

Part Three

Tax Treaty Aspects of Shipping and Air Transport

Chapter 5:	Historical Background of Proposed Changes to Articles 8 and 15(3) OECD Model	73
	Jacques Sasseville
5.1.	Introduction	73
5.2.	The early 1920s' reciprocal agreements concerning the taxation of shipping	74
5.3.	Work of the League of Nations	81
5.3.1.	The four economists' report (1923)	82

Table of Contents

5.3.2.	The work of the technical experts (1922-1925) and the 1927-1928 models	84
5.3.3.	The Mexico (1943) and London (1946) Models	88
5.4.	Work of the OEEC and OECD	90
5.5.	Conclusion	101
Chapter 6:	Place of Effective Management versus Residence Isabelle Richelle	105
6.1.	Introduction	105
6.2.	Connecting factors applying to ships and aircraft under common law	106
6.2.1.	Ships	106
6.2.1.1.	General rules	106
6.2.1.2.	International aspects	107
6.2.1.3.	States' practices	110
6.2.2.	Aircraft	113
6.2.3.	Conclusions	114
6.3.	Residence and permanent establishment	114
6.4.	Place of effective management under article 8 OECD and UN Models	116
6.4.1.	POEM: The reason(s) for this criterion	117
6.4.2.	The definition of "place of effective management"	120
6.4.3.	The POEM in practice	123
6.4.4.	Nationality, residence and POEM	123
Chapter 7:	Article 8 OECD Model: Time for a Change? Georg Kofler	129
7.1.	Introduction	129
7.2.	The reasons for a special rule in article 8 of the OECD Model	131
7.3.	The scope of article 8 OECD Model	137
7.3.1.	Overview	137
7.3.2.	Scope of legal ramifications	138
7.3.3.	Objective scope	142
7.3.4.	Subjective scope	145
7.4.	Conclusions	146

Chapter 8:	Issues Relating to Remuneration of Crews of Ships or Aircraft (Article 15(3) OECD Model)	149
	Frank P.G. Pötgens and Mees M. Vergouwen
8.1.	Introduction	149
8.1.1.	General	149
8.1.2.	Relationship to article 15(1) and (2)	149
8.2.	Background	151
8.3.	Relationship to article 8 of the OECD Model: Object and purpose	154
8.4.	Shared taxation right	157
8.4.1.	General	157
8.4.2.	Subject-to-tax clause	158
8.5.	Qualifying employees	159
8.5.1.	General	159
8.5.2.	Rail and road transport	165
8.5.3.	Residence of the qualifying employees	166
8.6.	Different terms	169
8.6.1.	General	169
8.6.2.	Ship, aircraft, boat	170
8.6.2.1.	General; ship and boat	170
8.6.2.2.	Aircraft	172
8.6.3.	International traffic	173
8.6.4.	Inland waterways transport	178
8.6.5.	Enterprise	180
8.6.5.1.	General	180
8.6.5.2.	Context	180
8.6.5.3.	Connection with article 8 of the OECD Model	181
8.6.5.4.	The problems of “hiring-out of labour” and “wet lease”	184
8.6.5.4.1.	General	184
8.6.5.4.2.	Hiring-out of labour	185
8.6.5.4.2.1.	General	185
8.6.5.4.2.2.	Case law	186
8.6.5.4.3.	Wet lease	188
8.6.5.4.3.1.	General	188
8.6.5.4.3.2.	German case law: Reduction in the profits	189
8.6.5.4.3.3.	Belgian case law: The enterprise which operates the ship in international traffic	196
8.6.5.5.	Place of effective management	197
8.6.6.	Triangular cases	202
8.7.	Conclusions	203

8.7.1.	In general; taxation right to the residence state	203
8.7.2.	Qualifying employees	205

Part Four
Country Reports

Chapter 9:	Australia	209
	Micah Burch
9.1.	Introduction on private international law aspects of shipping and air transport	209
9.2.	Taxation of shipping and air transport activities under domestic law	211
9.2.1.	Income/corporate taxation of air transport activities	211
9.2.1.1.	Categorization of income stemming from air transport activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	211
9.2.1.2.	Taxation of income	212
9.2.1.3.	Cross-border aspects	212
9.2.2.	Income/corporate taxation of shipping activities	213
9.2.2.1.	Categorization of the income stemming from shipping activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	214
9.2.2.2.	Taxation of income	215
9.2.2.3.	Cross-border aspects	216
9.2.3.	Taxation of employment income and social security contributions in the shipping and air transport industries	220
9.3.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under tax treaties	221
9.3.1.	Whether taxes levied under tonnage regimes fall within article 2 of relevant tax treaties	223
9.3.2.	POEM and residence	223
9.3.3.	Meaning of “international traffic” under article 3(1) of relevant tax treaties	224
9.3.4.	Meaning of “profits from international traffic”	226
9.3.5.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	228
9.3.6.	Tax treaty non-discrimination issues regarding taxation of shipping and air transport	228

9.4.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under EU law	229
9.5.	VAT/GST	229
9.6.	Summary	230
Chapter 10:	Austria	233
	Christiane Zöhrer
10.1.	Introduction on private international law aspects of shipping and air transport	233
10.1.1.	Criteria used to attribute nationality to aircrafts and the impact of international agreements	233
10.1.2.	Criteria used to attribute nationality to ships and the impact of international agreements	234
10.2.	Taxation of shipping and air transport activities under domestic law	235
10.2.1.	Income/corporate taxation of air transport activities	235
10.2.1.1.	Categorization of income stemming from air transport activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	235
10.2.1.2.	Taxation of income	237
10.2.1.3.	Cross-border aspects	239
10.2.1.3.1.	Taxation of resident enterprises for cross-border transport and in connection with foreign countries	239
10.2.1.3.2.	Taxation of non-resident enterprises (instances and computation)	240
10.2.1.3.3.	Relevance of “permanent establishment”	241
10.2.2.	Income/corporate taxation of shipping activities	242
10.2.2.1.	Categorization of income stemming from shipping activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	242
10.2.2.2.	Taxation of income	242
10.2.2.3.	Cross-border aspects	243
10.2.2.3.1.	Taxation of resident enterprises for cross-border transport and in connection with foreign countries	243
10.2.2.3.2.	Taxation of non-resident enterprises (instances and computation)	243
10.2.2.3.3.	Relevance of “permanent establishment”	243
10.2.3.	Taxation of employment income and social security contributions	244
10.2.3.1.	Taxation of employment income	244
10.2.3.2.	Social security contributions	246

10.3.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under tax treaties	247
10.3.1.	POEM and residence	247
10.3.1.1.	POEM is aboard a ship	250
10.3.2.	Meaning of “international traffic” under article 3(1) of relevant tax treaties	251
10.3.3.	Meaning of “profits from international traffic”	252
10.3.4.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	256
10.3.4.1.	Inland waterways	256
10.3.4.2.	Road and railway transportation	257
10.3.5.	Tax treaty non-discrimination issues regarding taxation of shipping and air transport	258
10.4.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under EU law	260
10.5.	VAT/GST	260
10.6.	Summary	265
Chapter 11:	Brazil	269
	Giancarlo Chamma Matarazzo and Tiago Moreira Vieira Rocha
11.1.	Introduction on private international law aspects of shipping and air transport	269
11.1.1.	Initial considerations	269
11.1.2.	Jurisdiction of the federal government to exploit shipping and air transport activities	270
11.1.3.	Brief comment concerning private law on air transport	270
11.1.4.	Brief comment concerning private law on shipping	272
11.2.	Taxation of shipping and air transport activities under domestic law	273
11.2.1.	Income/corporate taxation of air transport activities	273
11.2.1.1.	Tax treatment accorded to domestic airlines:
	Air taxi operations	273
11.2.1.1.1.	IRPJ and CSL	273
11.2.1.1.2.	PIS and COFINS	275
11.2.1.1.3.	Summary	276
11.2.1.2.	Tax treatment of international air carriers:
	International air transport service	276
11.2.1.2.1.	Permanent establishment	276

11.2.1.2.2.	IRPJ and CSL	277
11.2.1.2.3.	PIS and COFINS	278
11.2.1.2.4.	IRF	278
11.2.1.2.5.	Summary	279
11.2.2.	Income/corporate taxation of shipping activities	279
11.2.2.2.	Tax treatment applicable to Brazilian shipping companies	280
11.2.2.2.1.	IRPJ and CSL	280
11.2.2.2.2.	PIS and COFINS	280
11.2.2.3.	Tax treatment applicable to foreign shipping companies	281
11.2.2.3.1.	Long-haul shipment and internal portion of international shipment route	281
11.2.2.3.2.	Cruises	281
11.3.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under tax treaties	282
11.3.1.	Brazilian tax treaties and taxes covered	282
11.3.1.1.	General considerations on the application of international treaties under Brazilian laws	282
11.3.1.2.	Taxes covered by treaties	283
11.3.1.2.1.	The matter of CSL	283
11.3.1.2.2.	The matter of PIS and COFINS	284
11.3.2.	POEM and residence	284
11.3.3.	Meaning of “international traffic” under article 3(1) of relevant tax treaties	285
11.3.4.	Meaning of “profits from international traffic”	286
11.3.5.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	288
11.4.	Conclusion	289
Chapter 12:	Canada	291
	John J. Lennard
12.1.	Introduction on private international law aspects of shipping and air transport	291
12.1.1.	Regulation of shipping and marine transportation	291
12.1.2.	Regulation of aviation	292
12.2.	Taxation of shipping and air transport activities under domestic law	294
12.2.1.	Taxation of business income	295
12.2.1.1.	Special rules applicable to international shipping activities	295

Table of Contents

12.2.1.1.1.	The reciprocal relief exemption	296
12.2.1.1.1.1.	Meaning of “income earned from international shipping”	296
12.2.1.1.1.2.	Meaning of “substantially similar relief”	300
12.2.1.1.2.	The residency exemption	300
12.2.1.1.2.1.	The business test	302
12.2.1.1.2.2.	The asset test	302
12.2.1.1.2.3.	The revenue test	302
12.2.1.1.3.	Special tax incentives for shipbuilding – Quebec	303
12.2.1.1.4.	International shipping and Canada’s foreign affiliate regime	303
12.2.1.2.	Special rules applicable to international air transport activities	305
12.2.2.	Tax depreciation regime	306
12.2.3.	Taxation of capital gains from the disposition of assets or equipment	306
12.2.4.	Taxation of rents and royalties received from an international transportation business	307
12.2.5.	Taxation of employment income	308
12.3.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under tax treaties	311
12.3.1.	Whether taxes levied under tonnage tax regimes fall within article 2	311
12.3.2.	Place of effective management and residence	312
12.3.3.	Meaning of the term “international traffic” under article 3(1) of the OECD Model	313
12.3.4.	Meaning of profits from international traffic	315
12.3.5.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	316
12.4.	Goods and services tax matters	318
12.4.1.	Treatment of shipping and air transport services	318
12.4.2.	Goods and services supplied on international flights or international voyages	320
12.4.3.	Limited residency exemption	321
Chapter 13:	Mainland China and Hong Kong SAR	323
	Na Li
13.1.	Introduction	323
13.2.	Introduction on private international law aspects of shipping and air transport	324
13.2.1.	Mainland China	324

13.2.1.1.	Ships	324
13.2.1.2.	Aircrafts	326
13.2.2.	Hong Kong SAR	326
13.2.2.1.	Ships	326
13.2.2.2.	Aircrafts	327
13.3.	Taxation of shipping and air transport activities under domestic law	328
13.3.1.	Income/corporate taxation of shipping and air transport activities	328
13.3.1.1.	Mainland China	328
13.3.1.1.1.	Categorization of income	329
13.3.1.1.2.	Taxation of income	329
13.3.1.1.3.	Relevance of permanent establishments	331
13.3.1.1.4.	Special income tax regime	332
13.3.1.2.	Hong Kong SAR	333
13.3.1.2.1.	Categorization of income	334
13.3.1.2.1.1.	Aircraft income	334
13.3.1.2.1.2.	Shipping income	335
13.3.1.2.2.	Taxation of income	336
13.3.1.2.2.1.	Special tax regime for aircraft income	336
13.3.1.2.2.2.	Special tax regime for shipping income	337
13.3.1.2.3.	Relevance of permanent establishments	339
13.3.2.	Taxation of employment income and social security contributions	340
13.3.2.1.	Mainland China	340
13.3.2.1.1.	Individual income tax	340
13.3.2.1.2.	Social security contributions	340
13.3.2.2.	Hong Kong SAR	341
13.3.2.2.1.	Individual income tax	341
13.3.2.2.2.	Social security contributions	342
13.4.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under tax treaties	342
13.4.1.	Overview	342
13.4.2.	Tonnage corporate taxes	344
13.4.3.	POEM and residence	344
13.4.3.1.	Mainland China	344
13.4.3.2.	Hong Kong SAR	345
13.4.4.	Meaning of the term “international traffic” under article 3(1) of relevant tax treaties	345
13.4.4.1.	Mainland China	345
13.4.4.2.	Hong Kong SAR	346
13.4.5.	Meaning of “profits from international traffic”	346

Table of Contents

13.4.5.1.	Mainland China	346
13.4.5.2.	Hong Kong SAR	348
13.4.6.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	349
13.4.7.	Tax treaty non-discrimination issues regarding taxation of shipping and air transport	349
13.5.	VAT	349
13.6.	Conclusion	351
Chapter 14:	Denmark	353
	Clive M. Baxter, Trine Thomsen, Elena E.N. Christensen, Michael P. Hansen and Katarina Johannessen
14.1.	Introduction on private international law aspects of shipping and air transport	353
14.1.1.	Shipping	353
14.1.1.1.	The Danish Ship Registry	353
14.1.1.2.	The Danish International Ship Registry (DIS)	354
14.1.2.	Aircraft	355
14.2.	Taxation of shipping and air transport activities under domestic law	355
14.2.1.	Income/corporate taxation of air transport activities	355
14.2.1.1.	Categorization of income stemming from air transport activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	356
14.2.1.2.	Taxation of the income	356
14.2.1.3.	Cross-border aspects	356
14.2.2.	Income/corporate taxation of shipping activities	357
14.2.2.1.	Categorization of income stemming from shipping activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	357
14.2.2.2.	Taxation of income	357
14.2.2.2.1.	Ordinary regime	357
14.2.2.2.2.	Tonnage tax regime	359
14.2.2.2.2.1.	Corporate forms allowed	359
14.2.2.2.2.2.	Qualifying ships	360
14.2.2.2.2.3.	Eligible income	362
14.2.2.2.2.4.	Flag requirements	365
14.2.2.2.2.5.	Calculation of the taxable income	366
14.2.2.2.2.6.	Tax relief	368
14.2.2.2.2.7.	Formal procedures	368

14.2.2.2.3.	Cross-border aspects	369
14.2.2.2.3.1.	Taxation of resident enterprises	369
14.2.3.	Taxation of employment income and social security contributions in the shipping and air transport industries	370
14.2.3.1.	Shipping	370
14.2.3.1.1.	Seafarers' special deductions	371
14.2.3.1.1.1.	Deductions according to section 3 of the AST	371
14.2.3.1.1.2.	DIS	371
14.2.3.2.	Air transport	372
14.2.3.3.	Social security contributions	372
14.3.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under tax treaties	373
14.3.1.	Whether taxes levied under tonnage tax regimes fall within article 2 of relevant tax treaties	373
14.3.2.	POEM and residence	373
14.3.3.	Meaning of "international traffic" under article 3(1) of relevant tax treaties	374
14.3.4.	Meaning of "profits from international traffic"	375
14.3.5.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	377
14.3.6.	Tax treaty non-discrimination issues regarding the taxation of shipping and air transport	377
14.4.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under EU law	377
14.4.1.	Approval of the Danish tonnage tax regime	377
14.4.1.1.	Transfer pricing rules for Danish shipping companies	379
14.4.1.2.	Pool commission income	380
14.4.1.3.	Strategic and commercial management in Denmark	381
14.5.	VAT/GST	383
14.5.1.	Exemption under article 148	383
14.5.1.1.	Vessels used for international voyages	384
14.5.1.2.	Pleasure craft	384
14.5.1.3.	Services and acquisitions used for shipping activity	384
14.5.1.4.	Aircraft used by airlines mainly on international routes	385
14.5.2.	Contracts for carriage of goods and chartering contracts	385
14.5.2.1.	Chartering of vessels	385

Table of Contents

14.5.2.2.	Chartering of aircraft	386
14.5.2.3.	Carriage of goods	386
14.5.2.4.	Carriage of passengers	387
14.5.3.	Intra-Community transactions/new means of transport	387
Chapter 15:	Germany	389
	Alexander Hemmelrath and Lars Marquardsen
15.1.	Introduction on private international law aspects of shipping and air transport	389
15.1.1.	Attribution of nationality to ships and legal effects	389
15.1.2.	Attribution of nationality to aircraft and legal effects	391
15.1.3.	Impact of international agreements	392
15.1.4.	Sovereign power over foreign ships and aircraft	393
15.2.	Taxation of shipping and air transport activities under domestic law	394
15.2.1.	Income/corporate taxation of air transport activities	394
15.2.1.1.	Categorization of income stemming from air transport activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	394
15.2.1.2.	Taxation of income	396
15.2.1.3.	Cross-border aspects	398
15.2.1.3.1.	Cross-border activities of resident enterprises	398
15.2.1.3.2.	Cross-border activities of non-resident companies	404
15.2.1.3.3.	Relevance of PEs for the purpose of taxing air transport activities	406
15.2.2.	Income/corporate taxation of shipping activities	406
15.2.2.1.	Categorization of income	406
15.2.2.2.	Taxation of income	406
15.2.2.2.1.	Ordinary regime	406
15.2.2.2.2.	Tonnage tax	406
15.2.2.2.2.1.	Prerequisites	407
15.2.2.2.2.2.	Profit determination	411
15.2.2.2.2.3.	Application procedures	412
15.2.2.2.2.4.	Effects on taxation	413
15.2.2.3.	Cross-border aspects	415
15.2.3.	Taxation of employment income and social security contributions	416

15.3.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under tax treaties	418
15.3.1.	Whether taxes levied under tonnage tax regimes fall within article 2 of relevant tax treaties	418
15.3.2.	POEM and residence	418
15.3.3.	Meaning of “international traffic” under article 3(1) of relevant tax treaties	422
15.3.4.	Meaning of “profits from international traffic”	425
15.3.5.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	428
15.3.6.	Tax treaty non-discrimination issues regarding taxation of shipping and air transport	429
15.4.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under EU law and turnover taxes	430
15.4.1.	Direct tax issues under EU law	430
15.4.2.	VAT and other turnover taxes	434
Chapter 16:	Greece	439
	Michail Tegos
16.1.	Introduction on private international law aspects of shipping and air transport	439
16.2.	Taxation of shipping activities under domestic law	443
16.2.1.	Income/corporate taxation of shipping activities	443
16.2.2.	Taxation of employment income and social security contributions	450
16.3.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under tax treaties	451
16.3.1.	Whether taxes levied under tonnage tax regimes fall within article 2 of relevant tax treaties	451
16.3.2.	POEM and residence	452
16.3.3.	Meaning of “international traffic” under article 3(1) of relevant tax treaties	453
16.3.4.	Meaning of “profits from international traffic”	454
16.3.5.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	455
16.3.6.	Tax treaty non-discrimination issues regarding taxation of shipping and air transport	456
16.4.	Taxation of shipping under EU law	456

Chapter 17:	Italy	459
	Silvia Boiardi
17.1.	Introduction on private international law aspects of shipping and air transport	459
17.1.1.	Shipping transport	459
17.1.2.	Air transport	463
17.2.	Taxation of shipping and air transport activities under domestic law	464
17.2.1.	Income/corporate taxation of shipping and air transport activities	464
17.2.1.1.	Categorization of income and territoriality	464
17.2.1.2.	Taxation of income	465
17.2.1.3.	Cross-border aspects	468
17.2.1.3.1.	The foreign branch tax exemption regime	469
17.2.1.4.	Special regimes applicable to the shipping industry	471
17.2.2.	Taxation of employment income and social security contributions	473
17.3.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under tax treaties	477
17.3.1.	Whether taxes levied under tonnage tax regimes fall within article 2 of relevant tax treaties	477
17.3.2.	POEM and residence	478
17.3.3.	Meaning of the term “international traffic” under article 3(1) of relevant tax treaties	484
17.3.4.	Meaning of “profits from international traffic”	486
17.3.5.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	489
17.3.6.	Tax treaty non-discrimination issues regarding the taxation of shipping and air transport	490
17.4.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under EU law	491
17.5.	VAT/GST	493
Chapter 18:	Liberia	499
	Theophilus Dekonty Joseph
18.1.	Introduction on private international law aspects of shipping and air transport	499
18.1.1.	Tax practice and nature of rules governing shipping and air transport	499

18.1.1.1.	Criteria used to attribute nationality to ships and aircrafts	499
18.1.1.1.1.	Ships	499
18.1.1.1.1.1.	General provisions	499
18.1.1.1.2.	Aircraft	500
18.1.1.2.	Impact of international agreements on attribution of nationality to ships and aircrafts	501
18.1.1.3.	Special rules and laws on foreign ships and aircrafts operating wholly/partially in Liberia territorial boundaries/exclusive economic zone	501
18.1.1.3.1.	Foreign registration	501
18.1.1.3.1.1.	Right to fly Liberian flag withdrawn	501
18.1.1.3.1.2.	Restricted certificate of registry	502
18.1.1.4.	Possible difference(s) between the OECD Model and Liberian law	503
18.2.	Taxation of shipping and air transport activities under domestic law	504
18.2.1.	Taxation of ships and air transport	504
18.2.1.1.	Income/corporate taxation of air transport activities	504
18.2.1.1.1.	Categorization of income stemming from air transport activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	504
18.2.1.1.2.	Taxation of income	504
18.2.1.1.3.	Cross-border aspects	507
18.2.1.2.	Income/corporate taxation of shipping activities under domestic law	509
18.2.1.2.1.	Categorization of income stemming from shipping activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	509
18.2.1.2.2.	Taxation of income	510
18.2.1.2.2.1.	Ordinary regime	510
18.2.1.2.2.2.	Tonnage tax or equivalent regimes	510
18.2.1.2.3.	Cross-border aspects	513
18.2.1.3.	Taxation of employment income and social security contributions in the shipping and air transport industries	514
18.2.1.3.1.	Treatment of employment income connected with the exercise of activities on board ships and aircrafts	514
18.2.1.3.1.1.	Income tax treatment of crews	514
18.2.1.3.1.2.	Treaty exemptions	515

18.2.1.3.1.3.	Withholding on salary (Revenue Code section 200(3)A)	516
18.3.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under tax treaties	517
18.3.1.	Whether taxes levied under tonnage tax regimes fall within article 2 of relevant tax treaties	517
18.3.2.	POEM and residence	518
18.3.3.	Meaning of “international traffic” under article 3(1) of relevant treaties	520
18.3.4.	Meaning of “profits of international traffic”	522
18.3.5.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	524
18.3.6.	Tax treaty non-discrimination issues regarding taxation of shipping and air transportation	525
18.4.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under EU law	526
18.4.1.	EU tonnage tax regime	526
18.4.2.	Section 54 annual tax	527
18.4.3.	EU airline carbon tax	528
18.4.4.	EU value added tax	528
18.4.5.	General rules	529
18.4.6.	EU VAT exemption	529
18.5.	VAT/GST	530
18.5.1.	EU common VAT system	531
18.5.2.	When does the Directive apply?	533
Chapter 19:	Netherlands	535
	Taco Mooren and Ton Stevens
19.1.	Introduction on private law aspects of shipping and air transport	535
19.1.1.	Definition of ship and aircraft	535
19.1.2.	Attribution of nationality and legal effects thereof	536
19.1.3.	Powers of sovereign states in their respective maritime zones	536
19.2.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under domestic law	538
19.2.1.	Income/corporate taxation of air transport activities	538
19.2.1.1.	Categorization of income stemming from air transport activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	538

19.2.1.2.	Taxation of income	539
19.2.1.2.1.	General	539
19.2.1.2.2.	Taxable profit	540
19.2.1.2.3.	Avoidance of double taxation for Dutch-resident companies	542
19.2.1.3.	Cross-border aspects	543
19.2.2.	Income/corporate taxation of shipping activities	546
19.2.2.1.	Categorization of income stemming from shipping activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	546
19.2.2.2.	Taxation of income	546
19.2.2.2.1.	Tonnage tax regime	547
19.2.2.2.2.	Special depreciation schemes	550
19.2.2.2.2.1.	Accelerated depreciation	550
19.2.2.2.2.2.	Depreciation on declining book value	551
19.2.3.	Taxation of employment income and social security contributions	551
19.2.3.1.	National tax legislation	551
19.2.3.1.1.	Resident taxpayer	552
19.2.3.1.2.	Non-resident taxpayer	553
19.2.3.1.3.	Wage withholding tax	554
19.2.3.1.4.	Social security	555
19.2.3.2.	Tax treaties	555
19.2.3.3.	Seafarer's wage tax relief (Afdrachtvermindering zeevaart)	557
19.3.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under tax treaties	559
19.3.1.	Whether taxes levied under tonnage tax regimes fall within article 2 of relevant tax treaties	559
19.3.2.	POEM and residence	559
19.3.3.	Meaning of "international traffic" under article 3(1) of relevant tax treaties	560
19.3.4.	Meaning of "profits from international traffic"	560
19.3.5.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	560
19.3.6.	Tax treaty non-discrimination issues regarding taxation of shipping and air transport	561
19.4.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under EU law	561
19.5.	VAT/GST	561
19.5.1.	General	561
19.5.2.	Taxable transactions	562

Table of Contents

19.5.2.1.	Supply of goods vs supply of services	562
19.5.2.2.	New means of transport	563
19.5.2.3.	Taxable persons	564
19.5.3.	VAT rates	564
19.5.3.1.	Reduced VAT rate	564
19.5.3.2.	Zero VAT rate	565
19.5.4.	Place of taxation	566
Chapter 20:	Spain	569
	Ana Pita Grandal and Carmen Ruiz Hidalgo
20.1.	Introduction on private international and domestic law aspects of shipping and air transport	569
20.1.1.	Maritime law	569
20.1.2.	Aviation law	571
20.2.	Taxation on shipping and air transport activities under domestic law	573
20.2.1.	Corporate Tax Act 27/2014	573
20.2.1.1.	General regime	574
20.2.1.2.	Under a finance lease	575
20.2.1.3.	Tonnage tax	576
20.2.2.	Consolidated version of the Non-Resident Income Tax Act under Royal Decree 4/2004 of 5 March 2005	579
20.2.3.	Employment income tax on shipping and air transport industries	582
20.3.	Taxation on shipping and air transport under tax treaties	585
20.3.1.	Article 2 OECD Model and the tonnage tax regime	585
20.3.2.	Ships and aircraft operations in international traffic	586
20.3.2.1.	POEM and residence	586
20.3.2.2.	The meaning of “international traffic”	589
20.3.2.3.	Profits from international traffic: Preparatory and ancillary activities	590
20.3.3.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	592
20.3.4.	Tax treaty non-discrimination issues regarding taxation of shipping and air transport	593
20.4.	Court of Justice position related to the special measures of Spanish shipping industry	594
20.5.	Shipping and air transport services and VAT	598

Chapter 21:	Switzerland	603
	Raphaël Baeriswyl and Jérôme Bürgisser
21.1.	Introduction on private international law aspects of shipping and air transport	603
21.1.1.	Aviation law	603
21.1.1.1.	Nationality of aircraft: Criteria and conditions	603
21.1.1.2.	Legal consequences of the nationality of aircraft	604
21.1.1.3.	Power of Swiss authorities over foreign aircraft	605
21.1.2.	Maritime law	606
21.1.2.1.	Nationality of ships: Criteria and conditions	607
21.1.2.2.	Legal consequences of the nationality of ships	608
21.1.2.3.	Power of Swiss authorities over foreign ships	609
21.2.	Taxation of shipping and air transport activities under domestic law	609
21.2.1.	Air transport activities	609
21.2.1.1.	Categorization of the income – description of the activities	609
21.2.1.2.	Taxation of the income	609
21.2.1.3.	Cross-border aspects	610
21.2.2.	Shipping activities	611
21.2.2.1.	Categorization of the income – description of the activities	611
21.2.2.2.	Taxation of the income	611
21.2.2.3.	Cross-border aspects	612
21.2.3.	Employment income and social security contribution	612
21.3.	Taxation under tax treaties	614
21.3.1.	Introduction	614
21.3.2.	Tonnage tax	615
21.3.3.	Place of management or residence	616
21.3.4.	Meaning of “profits from international traffic”	619
21.3.5.	Article 7 or article 8?	620
21.3.6.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	622
21.3.7.	Tax treaty non-discrimination issues regarding the taxation of shipping and air transport	623
21.4.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under EU law	623
21.5.	VAT/GST	625

Chapter 22:	United Kingdom	629
	Zigurds G. Kronbergs
22.1.	Introduction on private international law aspects of shipping and air transport	629
22.1.1.	Nationality of ships	629
22.1.2.	Nationality of aircraft	630
22.2.	Income/corporation taxation of air transport activities under domestic law	631
22.2.1.	Categorization of income stemming from air transport activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	631
22.2.1.1.	Is a trade being carried on?	631
22.2.1.2.	The nature of the person carrying on the activities	632
22.2.1.3.	Residence of the person carrying on the activities	633
22.2.2.	Taxation of income from air transport activities	634
22.2.2.1.	Resident companies	634
22.2.2.2.	Non-resident companies	639
22.3.	Income/corporate taxation of shipping activities under domestic law	640
22.3.1.	Categorization of income stemming from shipping activities and preparatory and ancillary activities	640
22.3.2.	Taxation of the income	641
22.3.2.1.	Ordinary regime	641
22.3.2.2.	Tonnage tax	643
22.4.	Taxation of employment income and social security contributions in the shipping and air transport industries	650
22.4.1.	Income tax on employment income	651
22.4.2.	National insurance contributions	655
22.5.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under tax treaties	657
22.5.1.	Whether taxes levied under tonnage tax regimes fall within article 2 of relevant tax treaties	657
22.5.2.	POEM and residence in article 8	658
22.5.3.	Meaning of “international traffic” under article 3(1) of relevant tax treaties	668
22.5.4.	Meaning of “profits from international traffic”	669
22.5.5.	Taxation of inland waterways, road and railway transportation	671
22.5.6.	Tax treaty non-discrimination issues regarding taxation of shipping and air transport	671

22.6.	Taxation of shipping and air transport under EU law	672
22.7.	Value added tax	673
22.7.1.	Exemption under article 148	673
22.7.2.	The principles in Skatteverket	676
22.7.3.	Transportation of luggage and vehicles as ancillary to the transportation of passengers	677
Part Five
Final Remarks: The Point of View of Business
Chapter 23:	Conclusions from a Business Point of View Clive M. Baxter, Haroun Asghar and James R. Border	681
23.1.	Comment by Clive M. Baxter	681
23.1.1.	Some OECD and EU aspects – Shipping taxation	681
23.1.1.1.	Purpose of EU approved tonnage taxation regimes	681
23.1.1.2.	Purpose of OECD Model article 8 in respect of shipping	683
23.1.1.3.	Conclusions	684
23.2.	Comment by Haroun Asghar	685
23.2.1.	An overview	685
23.2.2.	The challenges of article 8 for airlines	685
23.2.3.	Conclusions	688
23.3.	Comment by James R. Border	690
23.3.1.	EU proposed CCTB/CCCTB	690
23.3.2.	Model treaty changes	693
Contributors		695