

Geographies of Embodiment in Early Modern England

Edited by

MARY FLOYD-WILSON AND GARRETT A. SULLIVAN, JR.

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

List of Figures	xi
List of Contributors	xv
1. Introduction Mary Floyd-Wilson and Garrett A. Sullivan, Jr.	1
2. How Gardens Feel: The Natural History of Sensation in Spenser and Milton Michael Schoenfeldt	14
3. Hi Mho Ji Kudd : The Transformation of Thomas Stephens in Goa Jonathan Gil Harris	39
4. Anatomy, Cartography, and the New World Body Valerie Traub	64
5. Place and Memory: History, Cognition, Phenomenology John Sutton	113
6. Meteorology, Embodiment, and Environment in Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream Mary Thomas Crane	134
7. 'My Hand Would Dissolve, Or Seem to Melt': Poetic Dissolution and Stoic Cosmology Kristen Poole	152
8. Passions of the Flock Julian Yates	177
9. Speaking (of) Faces: The Gestural Body in Measure for Measure Elizabeth D. Harvey	197
10. Sleeping in Error in Spenser's Faerie Queene , Book 1 Garrett A. Sullivan, Jr.	224

11. The Habitation of Airy Nothings in A Midsummer Night's Dream	243
Mary Floyd-Wilson
Afterword	262
Gail Kern Paster
Index	271