

Contents

List of Contributors	ix
Acknowledgements	xii
1 New perspectives on working in the global film and television industries Andrew Dawson and Sean P. Holmes	1
Section I Systems of production
2 Labouring in Hollywood's motion picture industry and the legacy of 'flexible specialization' Andrew Dawson	21
3 Soviet film-making under the 'producership' of the party state (1955–85) Galina Gornostaeva	39
4 Making films in Scandinavia: Work and production infrastructure in the contemporary regional sector Olof Hedling	57
Section II Manoeuvrable spaces
5 No room for manoeuvre: Star images and the regulation of actors' labour in silent-era Hollywood Sean P. Holmes	75
6 Working as a freelancer in UK television Richard Paterson	91
7 Behind the scenes: The working conditions of technical workers in the Nigerian film industry Ikechukwu Obiaya	109

Section III Patronage and clientelism

- 8 Fathers, patrons and clients in Kinshasa's media world: Social and economic dynamics in the production of television drama
Katrien Pype 123
- 9 Les chefs-opératrices: Women behind the camera in France
Alison Smith 143

Section IV Creative agency

- 10 Cornel Lucas: Stills photography and production culture in 1950s British film
Linda Marchant 165
- 11 Making faces: Competition and change in the production of Bollywood film star looks
Clare M. Wilkinson-Weber 183
- Appendix 199
- Index 203