

O. MANNONI

Prospero and Caliban

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF COLONIZATION

Translated by

PAMELA POWESLAND

With a New Foreword by

MAURICE BLOCH

Ann Arbor Paperbacks

THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN PRESS

CONTENTS

AUTHOR'S NOTE	5
AUTHOR'S NOTE TO THE SECOND EDITION	7
FOREWORD by Philip Mason	9
INTRODUCTION	17
PART I. DEPENDENCE
Chapter I: Dependence and Inferiority	39
Chapter II: The Cult of the Dead and the Family	49
Chapter III: The Threat of Abandonment	61
Epilogue to Part I— Dreams	89
PART II. INFERIORITY
Chapter I: Crusoe and Prospero	97
Chapter II: The Colonial Situation and Racialism	110
PART III. PSYCHOLOGICAL DEPENDENCE AND POLITICAL INDEPENDENCE
Chapter I: Psychological Heredity and the Personality	125
Chapter II: National Independence	132
Chapter III: Repression, Stagnation, Progression	142
Chapter IV: Administration and Psychology	152
Chapter V: What can be done?	165
Chapter VI: The Experimental Spirit	187
Chapter VII: The Unity of Mankind	197
BIBLIOGRAPHY	210
INDEX	215