

Contents

Foreword xi

Preface xiii

Acknowledgements xvii

Introduction 1

PART ONE

Introduction 9

In Reality, Who Are We? 10

CHAPTER 1

A House Divided 16

Three Primal Experiences 17

The Garrison Mentality 31

A Tragic Vision 34

CHAPTER 2

Two Schools of Thought 36

American-Style Liberalism 36

The Epistemology of Empiricism 40

Common Sense 42

Dualism and Representation 47

Common Sense and Calvinism 48

Absolute Idealism 54

The Absolute 60

The Nation-State 61

Absolute Idealism in Canada 63

CHAPTER 3

An Aesthetic of Reconciliation 73

PART TWO

Introduction 87

CHAPTER 4

The Documentary Film in Canada 89

The Legacy of John Grierson 89

The Influence of Grierson	97
The Candid-Eye Movement	103
The Crisis Structure of American Cinéma-vérité	104
The Observational Structure of Candid-Eye Films	106
Two Journalistic Influences	107
The Empirical Character of the Candid-Eye Films	113
Not a Love Story	119

CHAPTER 5

Narrative Transmission in American Direct Cinema Films and Canadian Candid-Eye Films	120
Narrative Modes of Transmission	121
Agents of Narrative Transmission	122
Cinéma-vérité as the Mimesis of a Mimesis	126
Imagery as Illustration: the "Literary" Quality of NFB Documentaries	129
The Days Before Christmas	130
Candid-Eye Films and Common-Sense Philosophy	134
Blood and Fire	135

CHAPTER 6

The Reality Principle: "Goin' Down the Road"	138
What Do Pete and Joey Want?	109
Ideas and Actions	141
The Repressions of the Reality Principle	144
The Non-Empirical Cinema of Quebec	147
The Problems of the Empirical Style	148
The Limitations of the Reality Principle	151

CHAPTER 7

Modes of Representation in Cinema	154
The Cinema of Presentation, the Cinema of Illustration, the Cinema of Construction	155
A Paradigmatic Contrast	156
A Contrast of Epistemologies	158
The Search-and-Discovery Structure in the Cinema of Presentation	163
Some Historical Background	165
Classical and Post-classical Art	168
The Telos of Total Realism	180

PART THREE

Introduction 185

CHAPTER 8

Michael Snow's "Wavelength"	188
A Minimal Film	188

A Phenomenological Film	189
A Durational Film	191
A Dramatic Film	191
An Experiential Film	193
Drama, Space and Time	199
Drama, Light and Sound	195
Dramatic Form as a Narrowing of Possibility	200
Drama and Temporal Continuity	203
Remarks on the Zoom	208
A Film of Purity	209
The Achievement of the Film	212

CHAPTER 9

From Painting into Cinema: A Study of Jack Chambers' "Circle"	214
Two Tendencies in Twentieth-Century Art	214
Chambers' Painting as a Prelude to Filmmaking	217
Perceptual Realism and Romanticism	225
Perceptual Realism and Photography	228
Circle	230
Circle: Section One	231
Circle: Section Two	236
Circle: Section Three	240

CHAPTER 10

All Things in Their Time: On Michael Snow's \longleftrightarrow	243
The Background of the Film	245
Snow's Multifaceted Work	246
From Modernism to Postmodernism	250
Experiencing Snow's Films	252
Snow's Transcendental Self	255
Snow's Postmodernist Associates I: David Rimmer	256
Snow's Postmodernist Associates II: Joyce Wieland	258

CHAPTER 11

The Photographic Image in Canadian Avant-Garde Film	263
Postmodernism vs Modernism	263
The Paradoxes of Photographic Representation	272
Postmodernism and Otherness	278
Camera Movement and Highlighting Absence: the Case of Chris Gallagher	282
The Frame and Absent Space: the Cases of Epp and Snow	286
Representation and Presentation: the Case of David Rimmer	291
The Single-Shot Film	292
The Relation of Text and Image: Postmodernist Strategies	293
The Duality of Photography	294

CHAPTER 12

- Michael Snow Presents "Presents" 296
Ut Pictura Poesis 296
 Modernism and the Metaphysics of Presence 297
Presents and the Challenge to the Metaphysics of Presence 300
Presents in the Light of Language Theory 305
 The Architecture of Presents 314
So Is This in the Light of Language Theory 317
 Presence, Time, Language and Knowledge 323
 Reprise: Ut Pictura Poesis 326

CHAPTER 13

- Idealism, Photography and the Canadian Avant-Garde Film 329
 Graphic Cinema 331
 Peter Kubelka's Theory and Practice 333
 Eisenstein's Theory 335
 Germaine Dulac 338
 Sydney Peterson's Views 340
 Against the Petersonian View: Maya Deren 341
 Romanticism, Hegel, and the Underpinnings of a
 Canadian Attitude Towards Photography 344
 Self and Other: The Undergirding of Romanticism 345
 Chambers' Art: The Amalgam of Subjectivity and Objectivity 346
 The Rhythms of Life and Death: Chambers' Films 355
 Nature, Idealism and the Photograph in Canadian Thought 356

CHAPTER 14

- Forms of Cinema: Models of Self 368
 Image and Identity 375
Hart of London 379
La région centrale 390
 The Transcendental Self, La région centrale, and Idealist Thought 395

Notes 401

Appendix: Filmographies 444

Bibliography 451

Index 467