

Contents

List of Contributors	vii
Introduction: The Future of and Through Music Ewa Mazierska, Les Gillon and Tony Rigg	1
Part One The Music Industry
1 Rethinking Independence: What Does 'Independent Record Label' Mean Today? Patryk Galuszka and Katarzyna M. Wyrzykowska	33
2 The Future of Digital Music Infrastructures: Expectations and Promises of the Blockchain 'Revolution' Paolo Magaudda	51
3 'The Sound of the Future Is Here Today': The Market for Post-rock within the Traditional Small Music Festival Landscape Kenny Forbes	69
4 'They Sold the Festival Out!' Axionormativity as the Future of Festivals Waldemar Kuligowski	93
5 The Hidden Worker Bees: Advanced Neoliberalism and Manchester's Underground Club Scene Kamila Rymajdo	111
Part Two The Musicians and their Music
6 The Adaptive Musician: The Case of Peter Hook and Graham Massey Ewa Mazierska and Tony Rigg	135
7 Where Do We Go From Here? The Future of Composers in the Post-digital Era Lars Bröndum	155
8 Searching for International Success in Europe's Periphery: The Case of Gin Ga and Fran Palermo Ewa Mazierska	171
9 Electro Swing: Re-introduction of the Sounds of the Past into the Music of the Future Chris Inglis	191

Part Three Music Consumption

10	Back to the Future: Proposing a Heuristic for Predicting the Future of Recorded Music Use Mathew Flynn	211
11	Current Music and Media Use of Young People in Austria: The Musical Practice of the Future? Michael Huber	235
12	Curators as Taste Entrepreneurs in the Digital Music Industries Emilia Barna	253
13	An Echoic Chamber: Algorithmic Curation and Personalized Listening Andrew Fry	269
	Index	291