

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction: ChicaNerds in Chicana Young Adult Literature: Brown and Nerdy	1
1 Not Your Nerd or “At Risk” Chicana Student: On ChicaNerds and Stereotypes	19
2 “Those White Girls Don’t Like It”: Community and ChicaNerd Feminist Resistance in Jo Ann Yolanda Hernández’s White Bread Competition	38
3 “The College Girl From the Barrio ”: Calculus and ChicaNerdiness in What Can(t) Wait	55
4 Theater and Chicana Poetic Development in Guadalupe García McCall’s Under the Mesquite	70
5 Band Shirts and Rebellion: Resisting the “Buena Hija” Trope Through Nerdiness in I Am Not Your Perfect Mexican Daughter	88
6 “Tis the Life of a Misunderstood Teenage Poet”: ChicaNerd Poetics in Gabi, A Girl in Pieces	105
7 To Be or Not to Be: Shakespeare, College, and Chicana Feminist Consciousness in Ghosts of El Grullo	121

Conclusion: Reflections From a (Grown-up) ChicaNerd: Or, Why I Wrote This Book	139
Works Cited	147
Index	158