

Contents

Acknowledgements	xi
List of Abbreviations	xiii
Preface	xv
PART I
Approach	1
1 Shakespeare, Language and Religion: Problems and Possibilities	3
Introduction: Shakespeare, Language and Religion	3
Skepticism and Cultural Poetics: Language as Power	7
The 'Turn to Religion' and its Ambiguities	10
Transition: Gadamer's Hermeneutical Philosophy of Language and Rowan Williams' Metaphysics	13
Some Theological Readings of Shakespeare	19
Grace, Gift and Ethics in The Winter's Tale: John Milbank	19
Nature and Forgiveness in King Lear: John Hughes	23
Language, Acknowledgement and Forgiveness in the Late Plays: Sarah Beckwith	25
Shakespeare, Cusa and Doxology: Johannes Hoff and Peter Hampson	27
Theology and Literature: Issues and Insights	31
Literature as Theology?	31
Theology as Literature?	33
2 'A Wide and Universal Theatre': Shakespeare, Cusa and Doxology	47
Introduction	47
Cusa, Theology and Language: Context and Background	50

x Contents

The Limits of Language and the Crafting of Names 53
Praise, Possess and Poetics 59
Calling and Responding: The Voices of the Soliloquy 65
The Liturgical and the 'Middle-Voice' 71
Response as Responsibility: The Hospitality of Words 75
Conclusion 78

PART II

Readings 87

3 The Unsayings of the World: *King Lear 89
Introduction 89
Spatialisation versus Symbolic Speech 91
'Nothing in the Middle': Weightless Words, Ponderous Silences 95
'Nature', or Creativity versus Curses 101
Swearing and Jesting in Vain 109
The Voice of the Skeleton Man 112
Nakedness in Garments, or Fiction versus Justice 117
Words without a Cause 122

4 Words of Childlike Grace: *The Winter's Tale 134
Introduction 134
Turning the World to Stone 137
The Rescue of Words: Fools, Counsellors, Oracles 146
Interlude: From Time to Tale 150
The Art of Storytelling; or Cutpurses, Courtiers and Clowns 152
The Queen of the Flowers, or the Voice of Nature 157
The Grace of Words and the Ground of Language 165

Epilogue: Shakespeare, Metaphysics and 'Theology and Literature' 181

Bibliography 187
Index 204