

Contents

Editor's foreword	7
Preface and acknowledgements	9
Introduction	13
Habermas	13
His challenge	14
And its context	15
Chapter 1 Foundations
From the philosophical foundations	19
To the sociological reconstructions	26
And the reconstitution of critical theory	32
Chapter 2 Culture, evolution, rationalization and method
Introduction	39
The evolution of society and culture	40
From traditional society to modernity: the reconstruction of
Max Weber's Theory of Rationalization	47
Method and meaning	57
Chapter 3 Communication and social action
Introduction	69
'Systematically distorted communication' and
'ideal speech' situation	69
Speech-actions	75
Communicative action	78
Chapter 4 The political sociology of advanced capitalist societies
Introduction	87
The 'crises' of legitimation, motivation and the state	92
Lifeworld and and system	105
Concluding comments
An empty intellectualism?	114
The 'movement of reflection' — forwards, upwards and sideways,
downwards or nowhere?	116
An insufficiently critical theory?	119
Finally . . .	121
Further reading	123
Index	126