

Contents

Abbreviations and Conventions	xiv
-------------------------------	-----

Part I Meaning, Scepticism, and Reality

1. Introduction	1
2. The 'Humean' view of causation	7
3. A summary of the argument	10
4. 'Objects': preliminaries	16
5. The untenability of the Realist Regularity theory of causation	20
6. 'Objects': complications	32
6.1 Strict Idealism	32
6.2 Perception-constituted objects and perception-content-constituted objects	37
6.3 A viable Regularity theory of causation	43
6.4 Hume uncommitted	47
6.5 Supposing and conceiving	49
6.6 Basic Realism	59
6.7 Bundles and fiction	65
6.8 Hume in metaphysical space	67
6.9 Writing as a Realist	68
7. The notion of the ultimate nature of reality	71
8. 'Causation'	84
9. Hume's strict scepticism	94
10. Hume's theory of ideas as applied to the idea of causation	102
11. The 'AP' property	109
11.1 The curious idea of a priori causal inference	109
11.2 An objection	111
11.3 The objection varied	114

xii Contents

12.	The problem of meaning	118
12.1	The 'Meaning Tension'	118
12.2	Experience-transcendent reference: E-intelligibility and R-intelligibility	124
12.3	Example: Hume on the mind	128
12.4	Conclusion	132
13.	'External objects' and Causation	135
13.1	The parallel	135
13.2	A possible disanalogy	136
13.3	An objection	139

Part II Causation in the Treatise

14.	Causation in the Treatise : 1	145
14.1	Introduction	145
14.2	Referring uses of Causation terms	146
15.	Causation in the Treatise : 2	151
15.1	Three stratagems	151
15.2	Ignorance, irony, and reality	154
15.3	Hume's global subjectivism about necessity	156
15.4	The necessity-we-attribute	161
15.5	'So far as we have any notion of it'	163
15.6	Conclusion	169

Part III Causation in the Enquiry

16.	Enquiry 30–37. The question of irony	177
17.	Enquiry 37–38. Causation and inductive scepticism	182
18.	Enquiry 42–61. The undiscovered and the undiscoverable	184
19.	Enquiry 65–68. Causation and human beings	190
19.1	Will and force: a last look at irony	190
19.2	Resemblance, solidity, and force	194
19.3	A rhetorical question	196
20.	Enquiry 69–73. The Occasionalists	199

21. Enquiry 74–77. The two ‘definitions’ of cause	205
21.1 Extraordinary ignorance	205
21.2 The two ‘definitions’	208
21.3 Conclusion	214

Part IV Reason, Reality, and Regularity

22. Reason, Reality, and Regularity	219
22.1 A summary of Hume’s position	219
22.2 The general form of the argument for Causation	222
23. The meaning of ‘cause’	231
23.1 Content: experience and concepts	231
23.2 The ‘Anscombean’ approach	238
23.3 The wisdom of nature	242
23.4 Causation: a non-sensory property	250
Appendices	257
A. Cartoon-film causation	257
B. Reality and truth	262
C. A short cut	275
References	285
Index	289