

CONTENTS

List of Figures viii

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction 1

Screening Globally, Watching Locally 6

The Long Life of Crime: Lessons for Post-Network Television 12

Program Guide 18

PART ONE Network Television

1 History and Format of the Crime Series Tatort
(Crime Scene) (ARD, 1970–) 27

Innovating within the Tried and True 30

Intersections of National, Regional, and Local Viewing 34

Tatort Tourism 36

“Close to Reality” 39

2 Following the Flow: The National News, Regional Crimes, and Global Literacy 41

3 Tatort Hamburg (NDR) 48

“Rechnen Sie mit dem Schlimmsten!” (“Worst-Case Scenario,” dir.
Peter-Schulze Rohr; NDR, September 24, 1972) 49

“Voll auf Hass” (“Committed to Hate,” dir. Bernd Schadewald; NDR, November 8, 1987) 62

“Auf der Sonnenseite” (“On the Sunny Side,” dir. Richard Huber; NDR, October 26, 2008) 73

- 4 Tatort Berlin (SFB/RBB) 86
 Berlin in the Crosshairs of Films and Television 86
 “Keine Tricks, Herr Bülow” (“No Tricks, Mr. Bülow,” dir. Jürgen Roland; RBB/SFB, May 28, 1989) 89
 “Berlin, beste Lage” (“Berlin, Top Location,” dir. Matti Geschonneck; RBB, January 10, 1993) 103
 “Eine ehrliche Haut” (“An Honest Skin/Man,” dir. Ralph Bohn; RBB, January 4, 2004) 114
- 5 Tatort Dresden and Leipzig (NDR/MDR) 127
 “Taxi nach Leipzig” (“Taxi to Leipzig,” dir. Peter-Schulze Rohr; NDR, November 29, 1970) 130
 “Jetzt und Alles” (“Now and Everything,” dir. Bernd Böhlich; MDR, July 31, 1994) 148
 “Todesstrafe” (“Death Penalty,” dir. Patrick Winczewski; MDR, May 25, 2008) 162
- Conclusion 177
 Regions and/as Mediascapes 179

PART TWO Netflix

- 1 Introduction 183
 Converging on Crime 183
 Netflix and the German Mediascape 186
 From Berlin Alexanderplatz (1980) to Babylon Berlin (Netflix/Sky/ARD, 2017–) 193
Fernsehfilm, Limited Series, and Period Drama 197
 Unofficial US Format Adaptations and Cultural Authenticity 200
 Transnational Casting and Production Practices 202
- 2 Crime Time: Dark (Netflix, 2017–20) 204
Dark Synopsis 206
 Transmedia Families 207
 Time-Shifting as a Post-Network Formal and Narrative Device 213
 Experimenting with Television: The Bunker/Children’s Room 220
 The Modular Architecture of Post-Network Original Language Crime Dramas 230

3	Relational Memory: Perfume (Netflix, 2018)	257
	Switching Channels: Domestic Rivals on Netflix	257
	Waxing Nostalgic: Perfume , Postmemory, and Restorative Nostalgia	265
	Peripheral Adjacencies: Welcome to Fargo, Germany	268
	Relational Memory and Micro Flows in Transmedia Television	271
	Abandoned Futures and Ruined Pasts	277
4	Watching National German Television on Netflix: Dogs of Berlin (Netflix, 2018–)	283
	Dogs of Berlin Synopsis and Narration	283
	Reproducing the East as Homeland	289
	Violent Crime as Authentication Factor	292
	“Kaiserwarte”: Surveilling Bodies in Motion	295
	Transmedia Migration as White Male Privilege	299
	The Illusion of Liveness: Watching Soccer with Neo-Nazis	302
	Conclusion	312
	Bibliography	317
	Index	325