

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Preface	xv
1. The Hollywood Studio System and a Brief Survey of Film Adaptations from Show Boat to Cabaret	1
2. Surviving in the 1930s Movie Studio Jungle: Jerome Kern and Show Boat , The Cat and the Fiddle , and Roberta	26
3. Challenging the Hollywood Studio Model: On the Town versus Call Me Madam	69
4. 1940s Stage Musicals and Their Screen Adaptations: Cabin in the Sky , Brigadoon , and Oklahoma!	107
5. More Than a “Chemical Reaction”: The Romance between Ninotchka and Silk Stockings on Stage and Screen	147
6. Something to Dance About: West Side Story on Stage and Screen	185
7. A (Mostly) All-Asian American Musical: Flower Drum Song from Page to Stage to Screen	204
8. Stretching Boundaries in the Wake of the Studio System Era: Cabaret on Stage and Screen	224
Appendix 1: Stage and Screen Musicals Discussed in A Fine Romance	249
Appendix 2: Stage and Screen Sources Discussed in A Fine Romance	253
Appendix 3: Selected Stage Musicals and Their Screen Adaptations (1920–2021)	259
Appendix 4: Selected Screen Adaptations of Stage Musicals (1930–2023)	263
Notes	267
Selected Bibliography	317
Index	327