

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	xi
Brenda Boudreau and Kelli Maloy
PART I: THERE'S NO GOING BACK	1
Chapter 1: "Is That a Test from the Supermarket?": How the Home Pregnancy Test Changed the Representation of Abortion in American Television and Film	3
Karen Weingarten
Chapter 2: "Trust Me, I'm a Doctor": Debating Reproductive Rights in 1960s Television Dramas	27
Caryn Murphy
Chapter 3: What Post- Roe America Can Learn from the Role of Social Media in the Repeal of Ireland's Eighth Amendment	47
Kelli Maloy
PART II: CREATING SPACE FOR ALTERNATIVE NARRATIVES	73
Chapter 4: Abortion Politics and the Dystopic Imagination	75
Heather Latimer
Chapter 5: Performing Endurance: The Labors of Abortion Access	95
Jaime Leigh Gray
Chapter 6: "I'm Offended by All the Supposed-To's": HBO's Pro-Choice Influence	115
Laura S. Witherington

Chapter 7: “I Gave Her Life”: Black Women, Abortion, and Healing in Brit Bennett’s The Mothers Patrick S. Allen	135
PART III: CALL TO ACTION	155
Chapter 8: When Stories Are All We Have: The Role of Television When Abortion Is Illegal Stephanie Herold and Gretchen Sisson	157
Chapter 9: The Abortion Pill and Other Myths: Medication Abortion on Screen Cordelia Freeman	177
Chapter 10: “Abortion is a Mothering Decision”: How Television Can Challenge the Good/Bad Dichotomy Brenda Boudreau	201
Chapter 11: “No Bigger than a Baby Bird”: Narrating Prochoice Fetal Materiality Jeannie Ludlow	225
Index	251
About the Editors and Contributors	257