

CONTENTS

Introduction . . . . .		15
Purpose and Scope . . . . .		15
The European Background . . . . .		17
SECTION I. PERSIA . . . . .		21
Chapter One
Early 17th Century Travellers . . . . .		23
Pedro Teixeira . . . . .		24
Don Garcia de Silva y Figueroa . . . . .		25
Pietro della Valle . . . . .		26
Nicolas Hemmius . . . . .		28
Thomas Herbert . . . . .		29
Adam Olearius . . . . .		31
Fray Sebastien Manrique . . . . .		32
Chapter Two
F. Raphael du Mans . . . . .		35
F. Gabriel de Chinon . . . . .		37
Jean Baptiste Tavernier . . . . .		39
Tavernier at Kerman . . . . .		41
Zoroaster and His Teachings . . . . .		42
Ceremonies . . . . .		46
Death and Funeral Customs . . . . .		48
Fire in Zoroastrian Doctrine . . . . .		50
Pollution and Purity . . . . .		50
Good and Bad Animals. Dualism . . . . .		51
The Question of Plagiarism: Who used Whom? . . . . .		52
a. Samuel Chappuzeau . . . . .		53
b. General Criticisms and other Plagiarisms . . . . .		54
c. Date of Publication . . . . .		54
André Daulier-Deslandes . . . . .		55
Chapter Three
Jean Chardin . . . . .		57
Chardin's Life and Travels . . . . .		57
Works . . . . .		59
Zoroastrians and Zoroastrianism . . . . .		60
Chardin's Perception of Zoroastrianism . . . . .		67

Chapter Four
	Jean de Thevenot . . . . .	69
	Struys (or Strauss) . . . . .	70
	John Fryer . . . . .	71
	Father Sanson . . . . .	72
	G. F. Gemelli Careri . . . . .	74
	Cornelis le Bruyn . . . . .	77
	T. J. Krusinski . . . . .	80
SECTION II. INDIA . . . . .		85
Chapter Five
	Early days . . . . .	87
	The Arrival of the Parsis in India . . . . .	87
	Early Gujarat Before the Advent of Europeans . . . . .	88
	The Portuguese in Western India . . . . .	89
	The Portuguese and Parsis . . . . .	90
Chapter Six
	Surat in the Early 17th Century . . . . .	95
	The English Arrival at Surat . . . . .	95
	John Jourdain . . . . .	96
	Edward Terry and Henry Lord . . . . .	97
	Edward Terry . . . . .	97
	Henry Lord . . . . .	98
	Lord's Account of Zoroastrianism . . . . .	100
	Creation and Divinities . . . . .	100
	Zoroaster and his Teachings . . . . .	101
	Ceremonies . . . . .	103
	Edward Terry (Pt 2) . . . . .	105
	Terry and Lord Compared . . . . .	108
	Did Terry Plagiarize from Lord? Conclusion . . . . .	110
	Perceptions of Parsis: Terry and Lord . . . . .	110
	Terry in the Context of Changing Religious Attitudes in the Later Seventeenth Century . . . . .	112
	Henry Lord's Contribution to Zoroastrian Studies . . . . .	112
	Thomas Herbert . . . . .	113
	Peter Mundy . . . . .	113
Chapter Seven
	Gujarat in the Early 17th Century . . . . .	115
	The Arrival of the Dutch in Gujarat . . . . .	115
	W. Geleynssen de Jongh . . . . .	116

Johan van Twist . . . . .	117
J. A. von Mandelslo . . . . .	118
Abraham de Wicquefort . . . . .	119
The Texts . . . . .	119
Arrangement and Scope . . . . .	119
The Parsis' Migration to Gujarat . . . . .	121
The Parsis in Gujarat . . . . .	122
God, the Amesha Spentas and Yazatas . . . . .	123
Parsi Religious Observances . . . . .	125
Parsi Life and Customs . . . . .	127
Death and Funeral Rites . . . . .	128
Marriage and Sexual Morality . . . . .	131
Communal Life . . . . .	131
Parsi Daily Life, Food and Drink, etc. . . . . .	132
Conclusion . . . . .	134
Geleynssen de Jongh, van Twist and 'Mandelslo' . . . . .	134
Geleynssen de Jongh and Henry Lord . . . . .	134
 Chapter Eight
Surat and Bombay, 1650–1750 . . . . .	137
The East India Company in Western India . . . . .	137
Rustumji Manakji and the English . . . . .	139
Niccolo Manucci . . . . .	139
Gerald Aungier . . . . .	141
Streynsham Master . . . . .	141
John Fryer . . . . .	143
John Ovington . . . . .	144
Alexander Hamilton . . . . .	146
John Henry Grose and John Cleland . . . . .	148
John Henry Grose . . . . .	148
John Cleland . . . . .	148
Parsis and Their Religion . . . . .	149
The Question of Authorship: Grose or Cleland . . . . .	152
The Cleland / Grose Perceptions of Parsis and Their Religion . . . . .	153
 Chapter Nine
A. H. Anquetil du Perron . . . . .	155
Background . . . . .	155
Anquetil du Perron: Life and Travels . . . . .	156
Surat . . . . .	158
Anquetil in England . . . . .	159
Paris: the 'Zend-Avesta' . . . . .	160
The Avesta . . . . .	162
Opposition to the Avesta: Sir William Jones . . . . .	164

	Anquetil and Parsi Ceremonies . . . . .	166
	“The Parsi Considered in his Different Ages” . . . . .	168
	Anquetil’s Perceptions of Zoroastrianism . . . . .	170
Conclusion	. . . . .	173
	Travellers Accounts Considered as Primary Sources . . . . .	173
	Reliability and Bias . . . . .	174
	Sources . . . . .	176
	Travellers and the History of Zoroastrians . . . . .	177
	Travellers and the Zoroastrian Religion: An Evaluation of Major Accounts . . . . .	178
Appendix	W. Geleynssen de Jongh, De Remonstrantie , pp. 104–125: “of the Parsis”, translated by P. G. Kreyenbroek, from the Dutch . . .	183
References	. . . . .	195
Abbreviations and Booklist	. . . . .	227
Index	. . . . .	241