

Contents

List of Abbreviations	x
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	1
How can the non-Jew speak?	3
How do we respond to stories?	6
On denying the story: a necessary digression	8
The story of the story-teller	11
1. Becoming a Messenger: An Impossible Necessity	19
(a journey of the self)
The Event took place: one must speak	21
The Event defies description: one cannot speak	23
The Event suggests an alternative: one could choose silence	30
The Event precludes silence: one must become a messenger	36
The Event suggests a certain kind of messenger: one can be a teller of tales	43
2. Darkness That Eclipses Light	50
(a moral journey - 1)
Victim	51
Executioner	59
Flight	64
Spectator	71
Madness	74
3. Light That Penetrates Darkness	80
(a moral journey - 2)

Participant	81
Michael and Milika	82
Michael and Pedro	83
Michael/Pedro and Menachem	85
Michael/Pedro and the Silent One	86
From Solitude to a City	89
From a City to The City	99
4. From Auschwitz to Mount Moriah - And Return	109
(an historical journey)
Necessity: the journey to the past, where the present is recovered, not evaded	111
Reverence: the journey to Sighet, where lost reality is more haunting than a severed dream	113
Celebration: the journey into Hasidism, where dancing counts for more than prayers	117
Reflection: the journey into Midrash, where every thought is worthy of embellishment	122
Contemporaneity: the journey into Scripture, where stories of the past describe the present	123
Challenge: journeys into the present, where any human need is paramount	129
5. The Silence of God, and the Necessity of Contention	139
(a theological journey)
On speaking of God while speaking of humanity	139
The agony of the believer	141
The silence of God	144
The necessity of contention: putting God on trial	148
On speaking of God by speaking of humanity	155
On starting all over again	160
Belief or unbelief?	164
6. Birkenau and Golgotha	166
(challenges to a Christian journey)
A revision of the Jewish agenda: the inevitability of contact	167
“Christianity . . . died in Auschwitz”	169
The betrayal of Jesus	172

A revision of the Christian agenda: the shape of a response	175
Birkenau and Golgotha	189
7. The Ongoing Struggle of Light Against Darkness; or, “What Is There Left For Us To Do?”	191
(a human journey)
From Jewish particularity to human universality— in that order	193
From repudiation of hatred to affirmation of anger	200
From immoral order to a moral society	203
From immoral sanity to moral madness	208
8. “And Yet, And Yet . . .”: A Small Measure of Victory	217
(an unlikely journey)
Notes	227
Bibliography	231
Index	237