

Contents

Preface	xi
PROLOGUE From Scripture to Torah: The Problematic of Midrash	1
PART ONE From System to Selection: The Mishnah and Scripture	19
1. Defining the Torah in the Aftermath of the Mishnah: Program, Detail, and Exegesis	21
I. The Program of the Mishnah in Relationship to Scripture	22
II. A Passage of the Mishnah Independent of Scripture	26
III. A Passage of the Mishnah Dependent upon Scripture	29
IV. Topic and Proposition: The Uses of Scripture in the Mishnah	36
V. Exegesis and Imitation	39
VI. The Authority of Scripture in the Mishnah	42
VII. Biblical Interpretation and Theological Imagination: Toward the Working of Midrash as Exegesis of Detail	45
PART TWO Midrash as Exegesis:
(1) Interpretation as Exegesis Yielding Proposition	57
2. Sifra and Sifré to Numbers	59
I. The Documents	59
II. Sifra	70
III. Sifré to Numbers	80
IV. The Issue	89
V. Way of Life, Biblical Interpretation, and Theological Order: The Primacy of Scriptural Authority in the Exegesis of Israel's Sanctification	93

PART THREE Midrash as Exegesis:	99
(2) Interpretation as Proposition Yielding Exegesis
3. Genesis Rabbah	101
I. The Document	101
II. A Sample	105
III. The Issue	127
4. Leviticus Rabbah	130
I. The Document	130
II. A Sample	135
III. The Issue	158
5. Pesiqta deRab Kahana	164
I. The Document	165
II. A Sample	167
III. The Issue	179
IV. World View, Biblical Interpretation, and Theological Imagination: The Primacy of Scriptural Paradigms in the Exegesis of Israel's Salvation	182
PART FOUR Midrash and Narrative:	187
Interpretation as Story
6. The Fathers According to Rabbi Nathan	189
I. The Document	189
II. Narrative and Midrash: (1) Creation	199
III. Narrative and Midrash: (2) Moses and Israel	215
IV. Narrative, but not Midrash: The Sage	222
V. The Medium and the Message	230
PART FIVE The Workings of Midrash	235
7. The World of Rabbinic Bible Interpretation	237
I. Scripture and the Organization of Thought	237
II. Organizing Propositions Around Verses of Scripture: The Yerushalmi	240
III. Organizing Discourse Around Verses of Scripture: The Bavli	254

8. Midrash and Us: Four Contemporary Issues	263
I. Theology, Culture, and Midrash	263
II. Is Judaism a “Biblical Religion”?	264
III. Were the Rabbis Joking?	268
IV. History and Midrash: The Authority of Scripture, the Freedom of Interpretation, and the Continuity of Culture	272
V. Reason and Revelation: Our Place in God’s Plan	276
Hebrew Texts	281
General Index	331
Index to Biblical and Talmudic References	334