

Table of contents

Acknowledgments	IX
Introduction	1
Organization of the book	4
A note on methodology	9
CHAPTER 1. Dialogue, intersubjectivity, and diversity in education	13
1.1 On intersubjectivity	16
1.2 Dialogue in diverse environments	21
1.3 Public schools and diversity	23
1.4 Some remarks on institutional dialogue	28
CHAPTER 2. A social perspective on children's development	32
2.1 Socialization through dialogue	34
2.2 On competence	36
2.3 Continuity and change in hybrid communities	41
2.3.1 Identities, ideologies, and socialization at school	43
2.3.2 Constructing difference and belonging in dialogue	48
CHAPTER 3. Children's peer languages and cultures	52
3.1 Children's agency and interpretive reproduction	53
3.2 Children's peer activities and cultures	58
3.2.1 Children's peer dialogue as a double opportunity space	61
3.2.2 Heteroglossia in the peer group	65
3.3 Acts of affiliation and disaffiliation: Social bonds and ostracism among peers	69
CHAPTER 4. (Mis)alignments to the school culture	73
4.1 Enacting and resisting subteaching practices	74
4.1.1 Peer socialization to institutional norms of language use	77
4.1.2 Peer socialization to institutional practices of literacy	82
4.1.3 Peer socialization to the social and moral norms of the institution	86
4.2 Socializing peers, negotiating local identities	93

CHAPTER 5. Classroom asymmetries: Authority and power in the peer group	96
5.1 Negotiating power asymmetries in the peer group	99
5.1.1 Macro-acting: Mobilizing authoritative sources	101
5.1.2 Achieving epistemic primacy	109
5.2 Peer hierarchies and children's social identity in the classroom	111
CHAPTER 6. Peer conflict: How children argue with each other	114
6.1 Accusations and rebuttals: Conflict in heterogeneous peer groups	116
6.1.1 Children's mediation of peer conflict	123
6.1.2 Including and excluding peers through conflict	127
6.2 On teachers' intervention	130
CHAPTER 7. Creativity in children's peer dialogues	139
7.1 Creativity in the peer group: Amusement and performance	141
7.2 Co-constructing identities and relationships through creative language use	146
7.3 Language creativity, learning, and development	150
Some tentative conclusions...	155
... and a few implications for teachers' practice	161
References	165
APPENDIX. Transcription conventions	199
Index	201