

Contents

Citation Information	vi
Notes on Contributors	viii
Introduction Anthony J. Maher and Justin A. Haegele	1
1 Voice, vlogs and visibility: the experiences of young people with SEND engaging in the school games Lesley Sharpe, Janine Coates and Carolynne Mason	6
2 Sport, disability and (inclusive) education: critical insights and understandings from the Playdagogy programme Rachel Sandford, Angharad Beckett and Richard Giulianotti	22
3 ‘Everyone’s just like, they’re fine, and when in reality, are we?’ Stories about recess from children experiencing disability Rebecca Rubuliak and Nancy L. I. Spencer	39
4 Students’ experiences of paraeducator support in inclusive physical education: helping or hindering? Donna L. Goodwin, Brenda Rossow-Kimball and Maureen Connolly	54
5 Yes, I have a disability. Does it prevent me from being a PE teacher? A qualitative approach from the point of view of future PE teachers and their families David Hortigüela-Alcalá, Daniel Bores-García, Raúl Barba-Martín and Gustavo González-Calvo	68
6 Teaching inclusive physical education for students with disabilities: reinvigorating in-service teacher education in Sri Lanka Samantha Nanayakkara	82
Index	96