

Contents

Part I: Toward a Narrative Theology	13
Chapter I: The Crisis in Christian Identity	14
1. Knowledge of God and Knowledge of Self	18
2. The Shape of the Problem	21
3. Symptoms of the Crisis	24
Chapter II: Revelation Under Siege	39
1. What Revelation Means	40
2. Barth's Discussion of Revelation	44
3. Attacks on Revelation	51
4. Internal and External History	59
5. A Narrative Interpretation	68
Chapter III: The Emergence of Narrative Theology	70
1. Different Forms of Narrative Theology	71
2. Narrative as a Theological Category	84
3. Problems of Definition	89
4. Narrative and Christian Identity	95
Part II: Christian Identity	99
Chapter IV: The Narrative Form of Personal Identity	100
1. The Structure of Personal Identity	101
2. Narrative and Personal History	111
3. The Autobiography of Malcolm X	118
4. Deceit and Self-Deception	124

Chapter V: The Church's Narratives	132
1. The Structure of Communal Identity	132
2. Biblical Narrative	136
3. Narrative and Torah	147
4. The Identity of the Crucified One	154
5. Scripture and Interpretation	164
Chapter VI: The Narrative Structure of Christian Faith	170
1. The Collision of Narratives	171
2. Augustine's Confessions	175
3. Acknowledgment, Recognition, and Confession	186
4. Confession and Revelation	193
Part III: The Hermeneutics of Christian Narrative	199
Chapter VII: Understanding Christian Narrative	200
1. The Nature of Understanding	201
2. Justification: A Test Case	213
3. Sanctification and Christian Identity	222
4. Knowing and Doing	228
5. Truth and Meaning	233
Chapter VIII: Narrative and Revelation	238
1. Revelation and the Word of God	239
2. The Disclosiveness of Christian Narrative	244
3. The Authority of Scripture	248
4. Narrative and Sacrament	253
5. Memory and Hope	258
Notes	263
Subject Index	285
Author Index	287