

Table of contents

Acknowledgements	VII
Introduction	1
Sylvie Hancil & Ekkehard Koenig
PART 1. General issues
Acquisition-based and usage-based explanations of grammaticalisation
An integrative approach	13
Peter Öhl
Grammaticalization and explanation	41
Irene Appelbaum
The perfectivization of the English perfect: Is it a case of grammaticalization, after all? The challenge of pluricentricity	53
Jim Walker
Explaining language structure: On categorial misbehavior in Walman (Papua New Guinea)	67
Bernd Heine
Toward a constructional framework for research on language change	87
Elizabeth Closs Traugott
PART 2. Case studies
Grammaticalization of Polish mental predicate prefixes	109
Iwona Kokorniak & Małgorzata Fabiszak
More thoughts on the grammaticalization of personal pronouns
Evidence from the history of Japanese	129
Reijirou Shibasaki
The grammaticalization of nomə in the Eastern Abruzzese dialect Ortonese: From indefinite pronoun to inflectional marker?	157
Cinzia Russi

The different developments of progressive aspect markers be in the middle/midst of and be in the process of V-ing : Mechanisms of change Tinne van Rompaey & Kristin Davidse	181
Sequentiality in dialogue as a trigger for grammaticalization Alexander Haselow	203
The final particle but in British English: An instance of cooptation and grammaticalization at work Sylvie Hancil	235
“Final hanging but ” in American English: Where a formal coordinator meets a functional subordinator Mitsuko Narita Izutsu & Katsunobu Izutsu	257
Author index	287
Subject index	289