

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements

xi

Introduction

The Painter, Social Identity and Cultural Politics

I

I

The 'Daedalian Hand': Style, Virtuosity and Artistic Persona

9

II

'Non vanis aut lascivis': Painting, Poetry and the Studio of Belfiore

*The Princely Studio – The Programme and the Paintings –
Dating Tura's Alterations – The Identification of the London Allegorical Figure – Guarino and the Defence of Poetry – Theodore Gaza, Basinio da Parma and the Poetic Re-fashioning of Painting –
Leonello d'Este and Giovanni Marrasio: 'Sic in amore furens' –
'The things men take pleasure in' – Ephemerata: Tito Vespasiano Strozzi on Tura –
'Feeding the eyes': The Metaphor of Pictorial Sensuality –
'Sine litteris': Tura's Calliope and Pictorial Ambiguity – History, Poetry and Spectacle*

29

III

'O Sacro Corpo': Devotional Images and the Art of Sanctity
Visualising Sanctity: The Saintly Body – Giovanni Tavelli and Tura's St Jerome – St Maurelius – St James – Line as Form and Symbol

63

IV

The Roverella, the Jews and the Image of Ecclesiastical Statehood

*'A Calamity has Befallen the House of Roverella' – Reconstruction and Dating – A Psalm, its Exegetical Tradition and a Ferrarese Poet –
'Adversus Iudaeos': The Metaphor of Painting – Princes and Jews: Clerical Attitudes –
'Ebraismo' and Curiosity: The Emergence of Artistic Persona*

99

facing page Tura, St Anthony of Padua. Detail of plate 50.

V

Paintings for the Cathedral of Ferrara:

Visual Polemic and the Uses of Art Theory

Compositional Strategy: Vision, Voice, Marginalia – St George and the Este –

Crusade and Conversion – The Astrological Hypothesis –

Idolatry and 'Ingenium' – 'Dolor daemorum': The Hermetic Hypothesis –

Painting and Irony

131

Notes

162

Bibliography

194

Index

203

Photograph Credits

207

facing page Tura, Pietà. Detail of plate 8.