

Contents

List of Figures	vii
Notes on Contributors	ix
Acknowledgements	xvii
Introduction: International Exhibitions, Paul Otlet, Henri La Fontaine and the Paradox of the Belle Époque W. Boyd Rayward	1
1 Of Artifacts and Organs: World Telegraph Cables and Ernst Kapp's Philosophy of Technology Frank Hartmann	23
2 The Formation of Global News Agencies, 1859–1914 Volker Barth	35
3 “In the Pursuit of Colonial Intelligence”: The Archive and Identity in the Australian Colonies in the Nineteenth Century Heather Gaunt	49
4 Divided Space—Divided Science? Closing and Transcending Scientific Boundaries in Central Europe between 1860 and 1900 Jan Surman	69
5 Scholarly Networks and International Congresses: The Orientalists before the First World War Paul Servais	85
6 Organizing a Global Idiom: Esperanto , Ido and the World Auxiliary Language Movement before the First World War Markus Krajewski	97
7 Beyond Babel: Esperanto, Ido and Louis Couturat's Pursuit of an International Scientific Language Fabian de Kloe	109

8	Laboratories of Social Thought: The Transnational Advocacy Network of the Institut International pour la Diffusion des Expériences Sociales and its Documents du Progrès (1907–1916) Christophe Verbruggen and Julie Carlier	123
9	Sociology in Brussels, Organicism and the Idea of a World Society in the Period before the First World War Wouter Van Acker	143
10	Collecting Paper: Die Brücke , the Bourgeois Interior, and the Architecture of Knowledge Nader Vossoughian	169
11	Alfred H. Fried and the Challenges for “Scientific Pacifism” in the Belle Époque Daniel Laqua	181
12	Global Government through Science: Pieter Eijkman’s Plans for a World Capital Geert J. Somsen	201
13	Dynamics of Networks and of Decimal Classification Systems, 1905–35 Charles van den Heuvel	221
14	The Great Classification Battle of 1910: A Tale of “Blunders and Bizzareries” at the Melbourne Public Library Mary Carroll and Sue Reynolds	243
15	From Display to Data: the Commercial Museum and the Beginnings of Business Information, 1870–1914 Dave Muddiman	259
16	An Information Management Tool for Dismantling Barriers in Early Multinational Corporations: The Staff Magazine in Britain Before World War I Alistair Black	283
	Index	303