

CONTENTS

Preface .....	vii
Abbreviations .....	xi
Introduction .....	1
I. Intra-Community Exchange and the Use of Law in Puteoli .....	9
Legal Interaction and Personal Knowledge .....	9
The Murecine Tablets: Archive and Archaeology .....	11
Intra-Community Exchange in Puteoli .....	15
Commerce and Social Standing in Ancient Puteoli .....	23
Path Dependence: 'History Matters' .....	31
Path Dependence: 'Sunk' Organizational Capital .....	37
Path Dependence: Satisfactory Outcomes .....	43
Conclusion .....	48
II. Inter-Community Exchange and the Role of Trading Stations in Puteoli .....	51
Intra- and Inter-Community Trade .....	51
Inter-Community Exchange and the Debate on the Roman Economy .....	54
Inter-City Trade in Twelfth- and Thirteenth-Century Florence .....	56
Individual Legal Responsibility; The Murecine Tablets .....	59
A Micro-Economic Model of Inter-Community Exchange ...	65
The Tyrian Trading Station .....	70
Tyrian Agents as a Trading 'Bridge' .....	79
Overseas Agency as a General System of Exchange in Puteoli .....	84
Conclusion .....	92
III. Coalitions of Foreign Merchants and Shipowners in Ostia .....	95
The Maghribis' Coalition and Medieval Trade .....	95
Comparing the Maghribis and Trade Networks in the Roman Empire .....	99
The Ostian Material Evidence: the 'Piazzale delle Corporazioni' .....	100

The Role and Importance of Coalition-Membership .....	112
Overseas Settlers in Ostia .....	118
Conclusion .....	124
IV. Inter-Community Trade and the City of Rome .....	127
Orbis in Urbe .....	127
Stationes on the Forum Iulium .....	130
Stationes on the Sacra Via .....	137
Ephesians in Rome .....	147
Palmyrenes in Rome .....	152
Syrians in Rome .....	160
The Western Provinces and Africa .....	164
Conclusion .....	167
V. Roman Traders in the Province of Asia .....	171
The Roman East as a Case-Study .....	171
Law and Life of Asia .....	177
Romans Resident in Ephesus .....	194
Romans Resident in Magnesia and Tralles .....	197
Romans Resident in Apamea .....	203
The Roman Settlers' Social Position .....	207
Conclusion .....	219
Conclusion .....	223
Bibliography .....	227
Index .....	239