

CONTENTS

PREFACE

v

I THE ENGLISH AND RELIGIOUS BACKGROUND

3

Definition of intellectual life, 4; The purpose of New England, 6; The English puritans, their attitude toward life, 8; Their effect on intellectual and artistic activity: the drama, music, 12; The alternative to a puritan intellectual life in the English colonies, 14; Puritan humanism and education, 17; The English universities, 18; Seventeenth-century interest in theology, 20; Puritans and poetry, 23; Attitude toward pleasure, 24; Population of New England in the seventeenth century, 25.

II THE BEGINNINGS OF HIGHER EDUCATION

27

The priority of Harvard College, 27; The 'fanatic fringe' of puritanism hostile to learning, 28; Purposes of the college, higher education in its broadest sense, 31; 'Collegiate way of living,' 33; Academic rank, 34; Education by barter, 36; Popular support of learning, 37; Curriculum, a liberal education, 41; Eupraxia, 43; The learned tongues, 44; Students' light reading in prose and verse, 49.

III THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

57

New England colonial education in general, 57; The English free schools under puritanism and the restored monarchy, 59; Early New England schools, 62.

Laws and motives, 65; The 'old deluder, Satan,' 67; Execution of school laws, 69; Popular education an upperclass idea, 73; Enforcement of laws, 75; Tutors' fees and democracy, 76; Private schools, 77.

The New England Primer, 79; Literacy, 82.

IV THE PUBLIC GRAMMAR SCHOOLS

86

English grammar schools, 86; The hundred-family law, 88; Purposes, 89; Public control, 91; New England grammar schools mostly one-master institutions, 92; Decay in latter part of century, 96; Distribution and duration of grammar schools, 97; Boston Latin School, 102; Curriculum of 1712, 105; Note I, Parallel between curricula at Westminster, c. 1600, and Boston, c. 1712, 108; Note II, Books owned by pupils, 109.

V PRINTING AND BOOKSELLING

113

Printing: the priority and purposes of the Cambridge press, 113; Stephen Day, 114; Samuel Green, 116; Dunster-Lyon Psalm Book, 117; Censorship, 122; John Foster, 124; Revival of printing in Boston, 1690, 126.

Booksellers, 127; Analysis of booksellers' stocks, 128.

VI LIBRARIES, PRIVATE AND PUBLIC

133

Libraries of Brewster, Standish and Bradford, 133; Library of John Winthrop, Jr., 134; Medical books in private libraries, 136; Libraries of Daniel Russell, Benjamin Bunker, John Brock, 138; Libraries of homespun folk, 140; Tables of estates probated that included books, 142; Samuel Lee's library, 143.

Public libraries: Boston, 145; New Haven, 145; Harvard College, 146; Literature available to New Englanders, 149.

VII THEOLOGY AND THE SERMON

152

English prose style and the first two generations of New Englanders, 152.

Pulpit literature, 156; Passages by Andrewes, Shepard and Oakes, 157; Nature of New England theology, 159; Expositions by Samuel Willard, 161; Rhetorical training of ministers, 163; Wigglesworth on eloquence, 164; Logic, 166; Sermon as intellectual expression and influence, 166; Half-Way Covenant, 172; Election and Artillery sermons, 174.

VIII HISTORICAL AND POLITICAL LITERATURE

177

General histories: Nathaniel Morton, New-Englands Memorill, 178; Hubbard, History of New England, 180; Histories of the Indian wars: The Present State of New England, 183; Increase Mather, Brief History and Relation of the Troubles, 185; Hubbard, Narrative of the Troubles, 185; Cotton Mather, Arma Virosque Cano, 185; Personal narratives: Mrs. Rowlandson, Narrative of the Captivity, 188; Captain Wheeler, True Narrative of the Lord's Providences, 191; Benjamin Church, Entertaining Passages, 193; Cotton Mather, historian and biographer, 194; Pamphlets: Birth of the political pamphlet in New England, 197; Cotton Mather, Declaration, 198; Gershom Bulkeley, People's Right to Election and "Will and Doom," 200.

IX VERSE

210

Conditions unfavorable to poetry, 210; Wigglesworth, Day of Doom and "God's Controversy with New England," 212; Anne Bradstreet, 218; John Saffin's love lyrics, 222; Elegiac verse, and Urian Oakes, 224; Controversial verse: George Joy and Peter Folger, 226; Benjamin Tompson, New England's Crisis, 228; Almanac verse: Samuel Danforth, Samuel Bradstreet, Daniel Russell, 230; Edward Taylor, 236.

X SCIENTIFIC STRIVINGS

241

Religion a stimulus to scientific inquiry, 241; No original impulse from England, 242; From Ptolemy to Galileo, 244; The college telescope, John Winthrop, Jr., Thomas Brattle, and the Comet of 1680, 249; Increase Mather, Kometographia, 254; The Philosophical Society, 255.

Witchcraft, 255.

The Growth of Scientific Knowledge, 265; Charles Morton, Compendium Physicae, 267; Robert Boyle, 269; Note, Fellows of the Royal Society, 274.

INDEX

277