

Contents

Part I. Assessing the Research Findings

1. Nonverbal Behavior: Barrier or Agent for Sex Role Change? . . . . .	3
Clara Mayo and Nancy M. Henley
Evidence for Nonverbal Barriers . . . . .	5
Evidence for Nonverbal Supports for Change. . . . .	9
Conclusion. . . . .	12
2. Gender Patterns in Touching Behavior . . . . .	15
Brenda Major
Introduction. . . . .	15
Who Touches Whom? Gender Differences in Patterns and Frequency of Touch . . . . .	17
What Does Touch Mean? . . . . .	21
How Does Touch Feel? Gender Patterns in Reactions to Being Touched . . . . .	27
Understanding Gender Differences in Touch . . . . .	31
Implications for Future Research. . . . .	33
3. Women and Nonverbal Leadership Cues: When Seeing Is Not Believing . . . . .	39
Natalie Porter and Florence Geis
The Head of the Table: A Nonverbal Leadership Cue . . . . .	40
Leadership and Sex-Role Stereotypes. . . . .	41
Stereotypes and Unconscious Perceptual Bias. . . . .	43
Cues in Conflict: The Head of the Table vs. Sex Role Stereotypes . . . .	45
Method . . . . .	45

Results . . . . .	48
Discussion . . . . .	53
Summary. . . . .	57
4. Visual Behavior and Dominance in Women and Men. . . . .	63
Steve L. Ellyson, John F. Dovidio and B. J. Fehr
Encoding Studies. . . . .	66
Decoding Studies. . . . .	70
General Conclusions and Implications . . . . .	74
5. Sex Differences in Body Movements and Positions . . . . .	81
Martha Davis and Shirley Weitz
Study I: Naive Impressions of Nonverbal Sex Differences . . . . .	83
Study II: Movement Analysis of Sex Differences . . . . .	84
A Comparison of the Technical Nonverbal Observations and the Naive Judgments. . . . .	87
Implications and Applications . . . . .	89
 Part II. Androgyny: Promises and Pitfalls
6. Sex-Role Influences in Dyadic Interaction: A Theoretical Model. . . .	95
William Ickes
Masculinity, Femininity, and Androgyny: Orientations toward Social Interaction . . . . .	96
A Model of Sex-Role Influences in Dyadic Interaction. . . . .	101
Research Evidence Relevant to the Model . . . . .	109
Additional Derivations and Implications. . . . .	119
7. Gender Gestures: Sex, Sex-Role, and Nonverbal Communication. . . .	129
Marianne LaFrance
Gender Gestures Are Variable. . . . .	131
The Social Psychology of Gender Gestures. . . . .	133
Issues in Conceptualizing Gender Display . . . . .	134
Evidence Relevant to Gender Display . . . . .	136
8. Gender, Androgyny, and Conversational Assertiveness. . . . .	151
Faye Crosby, Paul Jose, and William Wong-McCarthy
Gender or Something Else? . . . . .	153
Present Research. . . . .	155
Recommendations . . . . .	162

9. A Feminist Critique of Androgyny: Toward the Elimination of Gender Attributions for Learned Behavior. . . . .171
Bernice Lott

Part III. The Uncharted Frontiers of Development and Change

10. The Development of Sex Differences in Nonverbal Signals: Fallacies, Facts, and Fantasies. . . . .183
Jeannette Jones Haviland and Carol Zander Malatesta

Popular Assumptions about Nonverbal Behaviors. . . . .184
 Developmental Questions. . . . .185
 Overview and Organization of the Chapter . . . . .186
 The Facts: Where Early Sex Differences Occur . . . . .187
 Expressiveness in Infancy and Childhood . . . . .195
 The Development of Interaction. . . . .198
 Summary, Integration, and Conclusions. . . . .201

11. The Seven Ages of Woman: A View From American Magazine Advertisements. . . . .209
Jean Umiker-Sebeok

Introduction. . . . .209
 Infancy and Childhood . . . . .212
 Adolescence. . . . .218
 Young Adulthood . . . . .226
 Middle Age . . . . .238
 Old Age and Senility . . . . .244
 The Future of Women in Magazine Advertisements. . . . .247

12. Nonverbal Behavior and Lesbian/Gay Orientation . . . . .253
Patricia Webbink

Courtship Patterns. . . . .255
 The Effects of the Feminist Movement on Nonverbal Behavior and Stereotypical Sex Roles . . . . .256
 Suggestions for Research. . . . .258

13. Nonverbal Processes in Feminist Therapy. . . . .261
Elizabeth Robson

Origins of Feminist Therapy . . . . .261
 What Is Feminist Therapy? . . . . .263
 Power in Therapy . . . . .263
 Power in Gender . . . . .264

Change in Clients and Therapists. . . . .	265
Feminist Therapy and Lesbianism . . . . .	267
Questions for Research . . . . .	267
Author Index . . . . .	271
Subject Index. . . . .	279