

Contents

INTRODUCTION	I
1. RECONSTRUCTION: MURRY, ELIOT, AND THE ATHENAEUM , 1919–1921	12
Reconstruction and ‘Improperganda’	15
Literature and the War	22
The Athenaeum : ‘Inward Acts and Ancestral Attitudes’	34
Tradition and the Dissociated Sensibility	49
The Perfect Critic	60
2. THE CRITERION VERSUS THE ADELPHI , 1922–1925	69
Remy de Gourmont and the Problem of Style	70
After the Athenaeum	85
The Criterion and the Adelphi	92
Romanticism and Classicism	96
Murry’s Romantic Historiography	105
Hulme and Classicism	109
Murry and a Romantic Tradition	115
Keats and Shakespeare	119
3. ORTHODOXY AND MODERNISM: THE CLAIMS OF RELIGION, 1926–1928	128
Murry, Moral Relativism, and Modernism	132
‘Life’, Liberalism, and Organized Christianity	141

The Life of Jesus	146
The Classical Revival	154
Reason and Romanticism	162
Towards a Synthesis	169
Some Problems of Orthodoxy	181
CONCLUSION: IMPERFECT ORTHODOXY	191
SELECT BIBLIOGRAPHY	197
INDEX	211