

C O N T E N T S

Notes on the Contributors	vii
The Editors	xi
On Reader Responsibility: An Introduction Clara A.B. Joseph and Gaye Williams Ortiz	1
Part 1 A Theory of Ethical Reading
Chapter One Some Dilemmas of an Ethics of Literature Liesbeth Korthals Altes	15
Part 2 Reading and the Biblical
Chapter Two Only Irresponsible People would go into the Desert for Forty Days: Jim Crace's Quarantine Or the Diary of another Madman David Jasper	35
Chapter Three The Ethics of Biblical Interpretation: Rhetoricizing the Foundations Robert J. Hurley	45
Chapter Four Samuel Beckett's Use of the Bible and the Responsibility of the Reader Spyridoula Athanasopoulou-Kypriou	63
Chapter Five On Trial: Mikhail Bakhtin and Abram Tertz's Address to "God" Lewis Owens	73

Chapter Six	Bible and Ethics: Moral Formation and Analogical Imagination Johannes Nissen	81
-------------	--	----

Part 3 Reading and the Literary

Chapter Seven	The Playwright, the Novelist, and the Comedian: A Case Study in Audience Responsibility Dirk Visser	103
Chapter Eight	Dialogue in Gandhi's Hind Swaraj or Indian Home Rule or the Reader as Truth-Seeker Clara A.B. Joseph	119
Chapter Nine	Responsibly Performing Vulnerability: Salman Rushdie's Fury and Edgar Laurence Doctorow's City of God Erik Borgman	147
Chapter Ten	The "Indian" Character of Modern Hindi Drama: Neo-Sanskritic, Pro-Western Naturalistic, or Nativistic Dramas? Diana Dimitrova	173
Chapter Eleven	Film and Apocryphal Imitation of the Feminine— Judith of Bethulia Elizabeth Philpot	184
Chapter Twelve	Revolting Fantasies: Reviewing the Cinematic Image as Fruitful Ground for Creative, Theological Interpretations in the Company of Julia Kristeva Alison Jasper	199
Chapter Thirteen	Literature as Resistance: Hannah Arendt on Storytelling Dirk de Schutter	215
Index		233