

Contents

Acknowledgments	page viii
Introduction: rethinking modernism, remapping the turn of the twentieth century	i
1 Beatrice Webb and the “serious” artist	15
2 Inventing literary tradition, ghosting Oscar Wilde and the Victorian fin de siècle	45
3 The Lost Girl, Tarr , and the “moment” of modernism	78
4 Mapping the middlebrow in Edwardian England	114
5 “Life is not composed of watertight compartments”: the New Age ’s critique of modernist literary specialization	143
Conclusion: modernism and English studies in history	173
Select bibliography	177
Index	183