

Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction 1

Chapter 1. Beyond the Pillars of Hercules 13

The Adventure Tradition and Ancient Greece • Modernist Nostalgia
• Centripetal and Centrifugal Wandering (Homer, Virgil, Dante,
Tennyson) • Forster's Mediterranean Ideal Succumbs to the Dust of India
• Imperial Accommodations in A Passage to India

Chapter 2. "The Drive to Be at Home Everywhere" 45

Exile versus Nationalism in Said's Secular Criticism • Excursus on Ulysses, Nationalism, and Mimesis • Transcendental Homelessness
(Lukács) • Blumenberg on "Reoccupation" • Pulled into the
God-Shaped Vacuum • Colonial Occupation as Failed Reoccupation
• Literature as Redemptive Memory

Chapter 3. Conrad's Weariness 89

"Remorse and Power": Karain and the Queen 93

Hades and the Burden of the Past • Gilt Sixpence, Golden Jubilee
• Emasculating Specters • Jubilee Redemption • Gilt Lettering; or,
Writing and Redemption

Redemption and Belatedness in Lord Jim and Heart of Darkness 118

Rescuers in Need of Rescue (Conrad's Nonfiction) • Not Quite Gods (Jim and Kurtz) • Jim's Survivor Guilt, A "Created Terror of the Imagination"
• The Mad Lie of Rejuvenation in the East • Mournful Africa • Marlow's Renunciation

A State of Terror: Nostramo's Dynamite 156

Historicizing in Nostramo Criticism • Occidental Weariness, A Father's Unnatural Error • Reoccupation via Dynamite • The Body Politic as Corpus Dei; or, The Death of the Father

Chapter 4. Shadows of a "Silver Globe": Woolf's Reconfiguration of the Darkness 177

Avenues to Greece, • "I Think of the Greeks as Naked Black Men"
• "What's the Truth of It All?"; or, Spheres of Being • Sea Voyages and Shipwrecks • Tunnels, Corridors, Caves • Reality without Totality?
• Vision Liberated from Redemption?

Epilogue: Circling Home 219

Works Cited 227

Index 243