

Index

Introduction .....	11
1. (Dis)similar Developments: Science and History.....	25
2. Operationalising the Hypotheses .....	51
2.1. Operationalising the 1 st Hypothesis: “What is a historical novel, how subdivide it?” .....	51
2.2. Operationalising Constraints to the 1 st Hypothesis: “What is a neo-Victorian novel, how characterise it?” .....	59
2.3. Operationalising the 2 nd Hypothesis: “Which types of relationship exist between nature and science, nature and history?” .....	81
2.4. Operationalising Constraints to the 2 nd Hypothesis: “Why do genres further the allocation of otherness in a novel, which genres do so, and where?” .....	90
2.5. Expectations.....	95
3. Waterland and Possession : The Critical State of Play .....	101
3.1. Graham Swift’s Waterland .....	101
3.2. A. S. Byatt’s Possession .....	120
4. Science in Historiographic Metafiction: Waterland .....	141
4.1. The Pressure of Historiographic Metafiction in Waterland .....	143
4.1.1. The Scope of History .....	143
4.1.2. The Reduction of Science: Lewis and technology,                 the Atkinsons and history as deed .....	152
4.1.3. The Role of the Neo-Victorian “its:”                 the decline-theory, gradualism,                 and the second law .....	163
4.1.4. Closing the Gap between Science and History .....	173

4.2. The Pressure of Nature in Waterland .....	181
4.2.1. The Scope of Nature and the Passive Exclusion of Science .....	181
4.2.2. Active Exclusion of Science I: Mary, Dick and nature .....	185
4.2.3. Active Exclusion of Science II: Dick as machine .....	202
4.2.4. The Pressure of Genre in Waterland .....	210
4.3. Summing Up .....	218
5. Science in the Metahistoriographic Novel: Possession .....	221
5.1. The Pressure of the Metahistoriographic Novel in Possession .....	224
5.1.1. The Metahistoriographic Impulse .....	224
5.1.2. The Revisionist Articulation of Science: Neo-Victorian "its"? .....	226
5.1.2.1. Direct Revision of Science: the unified body of knowledge and religion ..	227
5.1.2.2. Indirect Revision of Science: gender .....	244
5.1.3. The Metahistorical Articulation of Science .....	264
5.1.3.1. The Unified Body of Knowledge .....	264
5.1.3.2. Gender and Religion .....	267
5.1.3.3. Vico's Corso / Ricorsi .....	269
5.2. The Pressure of Nature in Possession .....	272
5.2.1. Nature as a Centrifugal Notion in Possession .....	272
5.2.2. Active Exclusion of Science: a natural definition of poetry .....	277
5.2.3. The Pressure of Genre in Possession .....	292
5.3. Summing Up .....	302
Conclusion .....	305
Works Cited .....	313