

Contents

1. The Emergence of a New Lower-class Culture in the Towns	I
2. From Politics to Fiction, 1830-40	14
3. Currents in Popular Publishing, 1840-50	32
4. The Beginnings of a New Type of Popular Fiction: Plagiarisms of Dickens	51
5. Further Literary Influences: the Tale of Terror and the Historical Novel	83
6. The Paradox of the Domestic Story	114
7. The Contribution of the Upper Classes: Religious, Moral, and Instructive	135
8. Fiction from America and France	151
9. The Impact of the Towns	170
Appendices
I Some Minor Poets and Poetry	201
II London Publishers of Penny-issue Fiction, 1830-50	212
III Check-list of Penny-issue Novels Partially Listed in or Omitted from Montague Summers's Gothic Bibliography	216
Supplementary Notes	228
Bibliographies
1. Libraries and Private Collections	232
2. Manuscripts and Typescripts	232
3. Parliamentary Papers	233
4. Primary Sources	234
5. Secondary Sources	246
Index	255