
Contents

Curtain-raiser	ix
Preface to the second edition	xiii
Acknowledgments	xvii
Introduction to the first edition	xix
1 Contexts	1
Early political theatre and feminism	1
‘Emancipation’ and after	4
1968 – politics and theatre	8
The Women’s Liberation Movement and feminism	12
The Gay Liberation Front and gay politics	17
2 Cross-dressing, sexual representation and the sexual division of labour in theatre	20
Alternative theatre and sexual politics	32
3 The first phase: 1969–73	36
Early street theatre	36
The private goes public	37
The Women’s Liberation Movement and professional theatre	40
Theatre-in-Education and feminism	41
Socialist companies and feminism	43
Conclusions	44

vi Contents

4	The second phase: 1973-7	47
	The first Women's Theatre Festival	47
	The Women's Company	49
	The Women's Theatre Group	51
	Gay Sweatshop	53
	Monstrous Regiment	57
	Conclusions	60
5	The third phase: from 1977	65
	The Women's Theatre Group: agitprop and after	65
	Gay Sweatshop and spin-offs	68
	Monstrous Regiment and sexuality	70
	Conclusions	76
	Other theatrical developments	80
	Organisation	88
6	The skilled process	94
	Performers	94
	Directors	108
	Designers	113
	Administration and technical production	115
	Criticism	117
7	Finding a voice: women playwrights and theatre	121
8	Political dynamics: the feminisms	130
	1 Radical feminism	132
	2 Bourgeois feminism or emancipationism	134
	3 Socialist feminism	136
9	Radical plays before 1968: the crisis of virility, the 'feminine' and the 'female'	140
	The 1950s	140
	Look Back in Anger : John Osborne	141
	A Taste of Honey : Shelagh Delaney	143
	Ann Jellicoe	144
	Arnold Wesker	145
	Conclusions	147

10	Men playwrights in the 1970s	150
	The legacy of Brecht	150
	John McGrath	152
	Portable Theatre and sexuality	153
	David Hare	154
	Conclusions	156
11	The fourth phase: women playwrights in the 1970s and early 1980s	161
	Pam Gems	161
	Caryl Churchill	167
	Mary O'Malley	174
	Nell Dunn	175
	Claire Luckham	177
	Other women playwrights	178
	Michelene Wandor	185
12	Conclusions and the future	191
	Appendix: All Het Up in Bradford by Noel Greig	194
	Notes	199
	Bibliography	201
	Index	204