

Contents

---

Foreword: Poetic Criticism "In a New Key" vii

PART ONE: THE RISE OF THE MODERN SEQUENCE

Chapter One The Modern Sequence and Its Precursors

1. The "New" Genre and Organic Form 3
2. Lyrical Structure and the Genius of Modern
Poetry 11
3. Earlier Models: Shakespeare and Tennyson 18

Chapter Two American Originals I: Walt Whitman's
Song of Myself

1. "A Graduated Kinship of Moods":
The Dynamics of Song of Myself 25
2. Peak Moments and Renewal of Momentum in Altered Contexts 34

Chapter Three American Originals II: Emily
Dickinson's Fascicles

1. What Are the Fascicles? 45
2. Towards a Multiple Sequence 48
3. Fascicle 15: The Poetry of Psychic Trauma 53
4. Fascicle 16: A New Start 68

PART TWO: BRITISH APPROACHES

Chapter Four W. E. Henley, A. E. Housman, and Thomas Hardy

1. Henley's In Hospital and Housman's
A Shropshire Lad 77
2. Hardy's Poems of 1912-13 82

Chapter Five The Evolution of William Butler
Yeats's Sequences I (1913-29)

1. "Upon a Dying Lady" and the Civil-War
Sequences 96
2. "A Man Young and Old" and "A Woman
Young and Old" 109

Chapter Six The Evolution of William Butler Yeats's
Sequences II (1929-38)

1. Words for Music Perhaps 122
2. Between Words for Music Perhaps and *Last
Poems and Two Plays* 132
3. Last Poems and Two Plays 135

PART THREE: AMERICAN FLOWERING

Chapter Seven Edgar Lee Masters, T. S. Eliot, and "Voice"

1. Masters's Spoon River Anthology 149
2. Conrad Aiken on The Waste Land 153
3. "Voice" and The Waste Land 156
4. Intractable Elements: After The Waste Land 164
5. The Meditative Sequence: Four Quartets 173

Chapter Eight Ezra Pound I: The Early Sequences

1. Phanopoeia and the Image 184
2. Homage to Sextus Propertius 190
3. Hugh Selwyn Mauberley 196

Chapter Nine Ezra Pound II: The Cantos

- |  |     |
|--|-----|
| 1. A Representative Passage              | 204 |
| 2. The Pisan Cantos in Retrospect | 213 |
| 3. Problems of the Cantos         | 221 |

Chapter Ten William Carlos Williams's Paterson

- |  |     |
|--|-----|
| 1. Essentials of Paterson's Structure | 233 |
| 2. In Pursuit of "Beautiful Thing"           | 253 |

PART FOUR: NEO-REGIONALISM AND EPIC MEMORY

Chapter Eleven British and Irish Models

- |  |     |
|--|-----|
| 1. "Neo-Regionalism" and Modern Poetry   | 271 |
| 2. Hugh MacDiarmid's A Drunk Man Looks at the Thistle   | 274 |
| 3. Thomas Kinsella and a Landscape with Ancestral Figures; Basil Bunting's Briggflatts                              | 286 |
| 4. David Jones's The Anathémata , Geoffrey Hill's Mercian Hymns , and John Montague's The Rough Field | 295 |

Chapter Twelve Two American Models: Hart Crane and Charles Olson

- |  |     |
|--|-----|
| 1. Crane's "Voyages" and The Bridge | 314 |
| 2. Olson's The Maximus Poems        | 331 |

PART FIVE: POETRY OF PSYCHOLOGICAL PRESSURE

Chapter Thirteen The Meditative Mode: Wallace Stevens and W. H. Auden

- |   |     |
|---|-----|
| 1. "Psychological Pressure"                           | 353 |
| 2. Stevens's "The Auroras of Autumn"                  | 361 |
| 3. Auden's Look, Stranger!                     | 372 |
| 4. Auden's "Sonnets from China" and "Horae Canonicae" | 378 |

|                                       |  |     |
|---------------------------------------|--|-----|
| Chapter Fourteen               | The Confessional Mode: Robert Lowell and Others  |     |
| 1.                                    | Lowell's Life Studies   | 392 |
| 2.                                    | Lowell's Day by Day   | 403 |
| 3.                                    | Austin Clarke's Mnemosyne Lay in Dust and W. D. Snodgrass's "Heart's Needle"  | 408 |
| 4.                                    | John Berryman's 77 Dream Songs and Allen Ginsberg's Kaddish  | 416 |
| 5.                                    | Sylvia Plath's "Final" Poems and Anne Sexton's "The Divorce Papers"  | 428 |
| Chapter Fifteen                | Continuities, Post-Confessional and Eclectic   |     |
| 1.                                    | Ramon Guthrie's Maximum Security Ward   | 444 |
| 2.                                    | Ted Hughes's Crow and Galway Kinnell's The Book of Nightmares  | 460 |
| 3.                                    | Psychological Pressure and the Continuing Main Stream (H.D., Dylan Thomas, Laura Riding, Muriel Rukeyser, Adrienne Rich, and Others) | 476 |
| Index                          |  | 495 |
| Copyrights and Acknowledgments |  | 505 |