

CONTENTS

Series Editor's Foreword	vii
Acknowledgments	viii
Permissions	ix

Introduction	1
Elizabeth Robertson and Christine M. Rose

PART I READING AND TEACHING RAPE

1. Reading Chaucer Reading Rape	21
Christine M. Rose
2. Rape and Silence: Ovid's Mythography and Medieval Readers	61
Mark Amsler
3. The Violence of Courtly Exegesis in Sir Gawain and the Green Knight	97
Monica Brzezinski Potkay

PART II THE PHILOMEL LEGACY

4. Raping Men: What's Motherhood Got to Do With It? [adapted from Bodytalk (1993)]	127
E. Jane Burns
5. The Daughter's Text and the Thread of Lineage in the Old French Philomena	161
Nancy A. Jones
6. "O, Keep Me From Their Worse Than Killing Lust": Ideologies of Rape and Mutilation in Chaucer's Physician's Tale and Shakespeare's Titus Andronicus	189
Robin L. Bott

7. Rape and the Appropriation of
Progne's Revenge in Shakespeare's Titus Andronicus,
Or, "Who Cooks the Thyestean Banquet?" 213
Karen Robertson

PART III
LAW, CONSENT, SUBJECTIVITY

8. Rape in the Medieval Latin Comedies 241
Anne Howland Schotter
9. Chaucer and Rape:
Uncertainty's Certainties [rpt., adaptation] 255
Christopher Cannon
10. Public Bodies and Psychic Domains:
Rape, Consent, and Female Subjectivity
in Geoffrey Chaucer's Troilus and Criseyde 281
Elizabeth Robertson
11. "Rapt from Himself": Rape and the Poetics of Corporeality in Sidney's Old Arcadia 311
Amy Greenstadt

PART IV
READING RAPE:
THE CANONICAL ARTIST,
THE FEMINIST READER, AND MALE POETICS

12. Of Chastity and Rape:
Edmund Spenser Confronts Elizabeth I
in The Faerie Queene [rpt., adaptation] 353
Susan Frye
13. Spenser's Ravishment:
Rape and Rapture in The Faerie Queene [rpt., adaptation] 381
Katherine Eggert
- Afterword 411
Christopher Cannon
- Works Cited* 417
Contributors 443
Index 447