

Contents

Acknowledgments xi

Preface xiii

I. Folklore: Humor, Endurance, and the Mask 1

Origins

Tales of Exaggeration

Blues and Spirituals

Work Songs

Legendary-Men Tales

Slave Stories

Animal Tales

Minstrel Shows and Vaudeville

Folk Tradition in Black Literature

Contemporary Folk Forms

II. 1746-1825: Looking Toward Religion 15

Lucy Terry: First Black Writing

- II. 1746-1825: Looking Toward Religion (continued)
- Jupiter Hammon: First Published Black Literature
 Phillis Wheatley
 Gustavus Vassa: The Slave Narrative
- III. 1825-1890: Early Themes of Protest 27
- George Moses Horton: Early Protest Poetry
 James M. Whitfield
 Frances E. W. Harper
 The Maturity of Black Autobiography
 Frederick Douglass
 William Wells Brown: First Black Fiction and Drama
 Frank J. Webb
 Martin R. Delany
- IV. 1890-1920: Developing Artistic Consciousness 53
- Paul Laurence Dunbar
 Charles Waddell Chesnutt
 James Weldon Johnson
 ~ W. E. B. DuBois
- V. 1920-1940: The Harlem Renaissance and Its Influence 71
- Alain L. Locke: Explanation of the "New Negro"
 Claude McKay
 Jean Toomer
 Countee Cullen
 Langston Hughes
 Nella Larsen
 End of the Harlem Renaissance
 George S. Schuyler
 Arna Bontemps
 Zora Neale Hurston

VI. 1940-1960: Urban Realism and Beyond	107
Richard Wright
Richard Wright as Poet
The Wright School
Ann Petry
Dorothy West
William Demby
Ralph Ellison
James Baldwin
Gwendolyn Brooks
Robert Hayden
Margaret Walker
Paule Marshall
Lorraine Hansberry
VII. 1960 to the Present: Satire, the Past — and Themes of Armageddon	147
Satire in Drama and Fiction
Ossie Davis
Kristin Hunter
Ishmael Reed
William Melvin Kelley
Return to the Twenties and Thirties
Sarah E. Wright
Robert Deane Pharr
Themes of Armageddon
Etheridge Knight
Imamu Amiri Baraka ( LeRoi Jones )
Nikki Giovanni
John A. Williams
Conclusion	185

Notes 189

Black American Literature: A Bibliography of Folklore, Poetry, Autobiography, Fiction, Drama, Anthologies, Literary Criticism and Bibliography, and Social and Historical Comment 197

Index 273