

Contents

Preface	...	i
CHAPTER—1 : INTRODUCTION	...	1
Why Study Indian Philosophy Today 1 Presuppositions Concerning Metaphysics and Dialectics 3 The Meaning and Significance of Philosophical Idealism 11 So-called Objective Idealism 13 Obstructions to Objective Philosophy in the Indian Scene 16
CHAPTER—2 : INDIAN PHILOSOPHY IMMEDIATELY BEFORE AND SINCE INDEPENDENCE	...	25
Indian Philosophy Immediately after Independence 25 Chief Characteristics of Pre-Independence Indian Philosophy 27 Summary and Conclusion 41
CHAPTER—3 : SOCIAL FACTORS IN ESTIMATING INDIAN PHILOSOPHY TODAY		42
The Productive Base in India 45 What Effect does the Economic and Social Base have upon the Philosophers 60
CHAPTER—4 : FOREIGN INFLUENCES ON INDIA AND INDIAN PHILOSOPHY SINCE INDEPENDENCE		70
Western Influences on India in Recent Times 73 Indian Dependence on the International Oligopoly 80 The Influence of Britain on Indian Philosophy 88 The Influence of China on Indian Philosophy 92 Influence of the United States on Indian Philosophy 97 Influence of the USSR on Indian Philosophy 100
CHAPTER—5 : OTHER SOCIAL OBSTACLES TO THE DEVELOPMENT OF OBJECTIVE AND SCIENTIFIC PHILOSOPHY IN INDIA	...	102
Introduction 102 Spiritualism and Otherworldliness 113
CHAPTER—6 : INDIAN METAPHYSICS AND DIALECTICS SINCE INDEPENDENCE	...	123
Introduction 123 Contemporary Adaptations to Western Philosophy— The British Model 128 The Indian Linguistic Tradition 128 Daya Krishna and the Clarifying of Confusions 131 P. C. Chatterjee and a Realistic Analysis of Recent Trends in British Philosophy 141 N. K. Devaraja on the Importance, but Narrowness of Analytic Philosophy 145 Rajkumari Gupta and the Role of Analytic Philosophy in Creating Confusion 148

Dharmendra Goel and the Mysterious Disease of Language	150
Margaret Chatterjee and the Pseudo-problems of Linguistic Philosophy	155
The Conglomerate Mode of Kalidas Bhattacharyya	163
The German Model	179
Mehta's Heidegger : Philosophy Wandering in the Neighborhood of Being	179
Ramakant Sinari and the Softening of Right-wing Phenomenology	194
The American Model	205
S. G. Sathaye and John Dewey's Tenuous Hold on Reality	206
Dinesh C. Mathur's Sympathy for American Naturalism	215
The International Model	227
Debiprasad Chattopadhyaya and the Appearance of Histodiamat Philosophy in India	229
Satyendra Narayan Mazumdar and the Relationship between Linguistics and Marxism	244
Summary and Conclusion	250

CHAPTER—7 : THE DIRECTION OF INDIAN LOGIC SINCE INDEPENDENCE ... 253

Introduction	253
Substantialism in Indian Logic	255
Dinesh C. Mathur and the Detachment of Modern Logic from General Philosophy	257
P. K. Sen on the Relevance of Mathematical Logic	260
B. P. Adhikari and the Attempt to Develop a Substantive Logic	262
Subjectivism in Indian Logic	266
Rajendra Prasad and the Arrogance of Some Contemporary Logicians	266
L. C. Mulatti : Logic as Unrelated to Reality	272
Y. D. Shalya and the Conceptually Woven "Real" World	279
S. Bhattacharyya on Knowing that One Knows	281
A. P. Rao and the World of Fanalytics	284
R. C. Pandeya and the De-ontologication with Reference to Propositions about the Future	290
Summary and Conclusion	295

CHAPTER—8 : THEORY OF KNOWLEDGE IN INDIA SINCE INDEPENDENCE ... 297

Introduction	297
Subjective Epistemology	302
Suresh Chandra on Ayer's Epistemology	302
D. M. Datta and the Movement towards Sanity	315
N. V. Banerjee : from Realism to the Third Way	317
Anand Malik and the Return to Intuitionism	330
N. K. Devaraja and the Return to Transcendentalism	342
B. K. Matilal and the Indefinability of the "Objective World"	354
Conclusion	360

Bibliography	...	...	A-1
Index	...	...	A-19