

Contents

About Ourselves	vii
About the Book	ix
PART ONE: THE BASICS
1 By Way of Introduction	3
Background	3
The Definitional Problem	4
Exploring the Dimensions of Religion	11
Social Relationships	12
Ethical Considerations	14
A Definitional Revision	17
The Plan of the Book	19
Suggestions for Further Reading	25
2 Studying Religion	27
Why Study Religion?	27
How Do We Study Religion?	31
Survey Research	33
Participant Observation	35
Historical Research	38
Theory in the Study of Religion	38
Functionalist Theories	39
Conflict Theories	40
A Paradigm Shift	42
Rational Choice Theories	43
Sociologie Religieuse	49
Implicit Religion	50
Suggestions for Further Reading	52
3 The “Religion” of Secularization and the History of Religions	55
The “World” of Religion	55
The Arguments	59
The Critique	63
The “Religions” of Secularization	64
Civil Religion	65
Invisible Religion	69
The Myth of the Age of Faith	73
Pluralism	74
Suggestions for Further Reading	83

4	Religion in the United States: Denominationalism and Beyond	85
	Churches and Sects	86
	Weber's Sociology and Troeltsch's Ethics	88
	Elaboration, Reaction, and Revision	89
	Neo-Weberian Analyses	90
	Denominationalism	91
	Typology	93
	Denominations Today	95
	Congregationalism	98
	American Religious Renewal	101
	Mainlines and Sidelines of Religion of the United States	105
	Evangelicals and Fundamentalists: Alike and Different	112
	Suggestions for Further Reading	119

PART TWO: RELIGION AND SOCIAL DIFFERENTIATION

5	Social Class, Religion, and Power: A Classic Field of Inquiry	123
	Sociological Classics	123
	Marx: The Permanent Exile and Prophet	124
	Weber: Theodicy, Religious Ethics, and Social Class	128
	Religion and the U.S. Class Structure	133
	U.S. Classes and Religion in the Industrial Age: 1870–1970	134
	The Class/Religion Nexus in a Postindustrial Society	143
	Suggestions for Further Reading	151
6	Religion and Ethnicity: A Complex Relationship	153
	Clarifying Terms: Ethnic, Nationality, and Racial Groups	154
	Defining Ethnic Groups	154
	Nationality Groups and Territoriality	155
	The Specter of Race	156
	Relational Patterns between Religion and Ethnicity	159
	Ethnicity in the "Righteous Empire"	160
	The Ethnic Factor in the Formative Period of U.S. Catholicism	162
	The Jewish Diaspora	164
	Herberg's Thesis and the Triple Melting Pot	166
	The African-American Religious Experience	168
	From Different Shores: The New Immigrants	173
	The New Ethnics as Protestants, Catholics, and Jews	175
	Beyond Protestant, Catholic, Jew	177
	Suggestions for Further Reading	183
7	Gender, Sexuality, and Religion: Spirituality in Different Voices?	187
	The Ordination Debate	189
	Women in Clerical and Lay Roles	195
	Culture Wars: Gender, Religion, and Family Values	199
	Abortion and the Politics of the Body	200
	Family Matters	202
	Gays, Lesbians, and Religion	207
	Images of God and Gendered Spirituality	211
	Suggestions for Further Reading	213

PART THREE: RELIGION, CULTURE, AND CHANGE

8	Religious Change: The Case of Catholicism in the United States	217
	Church with a Capital C	217
	Change: From Breeze to Tornado	218
	Commitment: Loyalty, but Not Obedience	219
	Devotion: A Collapse of Authority	220
	Governance: Guiding the People of God	222
	Leadership: Failures at the Top	223
	Membership: Problems in the Pews	227
	African-American Catholics	227
	Hispanic Catholics	230
	Women in the Church	231
	Personnel: People without Priests	235
	Finances: Expanding Mission, Declining Resources	241
	Suggestions for Further Reading	244
9	The Globalization Dynamic: Historic Animositities or Postmodern Politics?	247
	Global Culture	250
	Excursus on the History of Religions	253
	Globalization and Fundamentalisms	254
	The Religious Right in the United States	255
	Islamization	260
	Fundamentalism, Globalization, and American Civil Religion	265
	Ultraorthodoxy	270
	Suggestions for Further Reading	274
10	Mediating Meaning: Religion in—and as—Contemporary Culture	277
	Mass Faith: The Media of Religion	278
	Religion in Material Culture: Faith in the Flesh	279
	Religious Publishing: Words and The Word	282
	“That Old-Time Religion”: Broadcast Faith in the United States	288
	“In the Beginning . . .”	288
	The Message: “His Master’s Voice”?	289
	The Messengers: The Return of Elmer Gantry?	290
	The Audience: Preaching to the Converted?	292
	Cyber-Faith: Religion on the Internet	293
	Suggestions for Further Reading	300
11	Boundary Issues: Church, State, and New Religions	303
	Religious Novelty	306
	Cult and Anticult: Social Science and Social Movements	308
	Asceticism and Mysticism	310
	The Attraction of the Margin	314
	Illustrations of NRM Dynamics	317
	Unificationism	318
	“Satanism” and Anti-Satanism	324
	Neopaganism: Of Gods and Goddesses	330
	Suggestions for Further Reading	333
	References	334
	Index	377