

¶ CONTENTS ¶

Preface: The Cheese and the Sermons: Toward a Microhistory of Ideas		xi
1	In Praise of Indecorous Acts of Discourse: An Essay by Way of Introduction	1
2	“Confound Laughter with Seriousness”: The Protagoras as Monological Dialogue	33
3	“Confound Seriousness with Laughter”: On Monological and Dialogical Reading—the Gorgias	81
4	Jesting Words and Dreadful Lessons: The Two Voices of the Babylonian Talmud	133
5	“Read Lucian!”: Menippean Satire and the Literary World of the Babylonian Talmud	193
6	Icarome’ir: Rabbi Me’ir’s Babylonian “Life” as Menippean Satire	243
7	“The Truest Tragedy”: The Symposium as Monologue	281
8	A Crude Contradiction; or, The Second Accent of the Symposium	319
Appendix: On the Postmodern Allegorical		345
Acknowledgments		351
Bibliography		355
Index		371