

CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS vii

ABBREVIATIONS viii

Chapter

page

(I.	INTRODUCTION)	1
(II.	D. H. LAWRENCE AND THE TRAVEL BOOK TRADITION)	7
	(Travel Literature: Toward a Definition)	7
	(Twilight in Italy: Some Introductory Observations)	19
III.	THE CRUCIFIX ACROSS THE MOUNTAINS	25
IV.	WOMEN IN LOVE: CROSSING THE BORDERLINE	41
V.	THE SPINNER AND THE MONKS: SYMBOLISM OF A PAIR OF BLUE EYES	62
VI.	THE LEMON GARDENS	81
VII.	THE THEATRE: THE NEW ARISTOCRAT	94
VIII.	SAN GAUDENZIO: THE LAWRENTIAN RELATION TO NATURE	106
	Narrative or Poetry?	106
	Nature as a Healing Medicine: Breadalby	117
	The Lost Girl: Solitude and Isolation	136
	The Woman Who Rode Away: Nature as a Cosmic Mystery	141
	Lady Chatterley's Lover: Nature and Eros	150
	Maria and Paolo: Two Opposites	167

IX.	THE DANCE, IL DURO, JOHN	172
	The Dance: "Venga - venga un po!"	172
	Il Duro: "I've seen too much!"	180
	John: "A Soul in Trajectory"	185
X.	ITALIANS IN EXILE AND THE RETURN JOURNEY	189
XI.	SEA AND SARDINIA: A TRAVEL BOOK PAR EXCELLENCE -- AND YET.	200
XII.	MORNINGS IN MEXICO: THE TURNING POINT	218
	The Voyage to Mexico	218
	Mexico	220
	The American Southwest	227
	A Little Moonshine with Lemon: Back in Italy	237
(XIII.	CONCLUSIONS) THE ETRUSCAN PAST - THE NATURAL FLOWERING OF LIFE	239
	BIBLIOGRAPHY	258
	Cited Works by D. H. Lawrence	258
	Secondary Literature on D. H. Lawrence	260
	Bibliographies	260
	Biographies	261
	On Lawrence's Travel Books	262
	On Lawrence's Fiction, Prose, and Poetry	265
	Other Works Consulted	270