

Contents

A Note on the Text	ix
Introduction	1
Donald M. Friedman
Marvell's Musicks	8
Stella P. Revard
Intertwining the Garland of Marvell's Lyrics: The Greek Anthology and Its Renaissance Heritage	29
Dale B. J. Randall
Once More to the G(r)ates: An Old Crux and a New Reading of "To His Coy Mistress"	47
Joan Hartwig
Tears as a Way of Seeing	70
Paul R. Sellin
"The Nymph Complaining" as a Stesichorean Calyca	86
Barbara L. Estrin
The Nymph and the Revenge of Silence	101
Eugene R. Cunnar
Names on Trees, the Hermaphrodite, and "The Garden"	121
Douglas D. C. Chambers
"To the Abbyss": Gothic as a Metaphor for the Argument about Art and Nature in "Upon Appleton House"	139

M. L. Donnelly

*"And still new stopps to various time apply'd":
Marvell, Cromwell, and the Problem of Representation at Midcentury*

154

Richard Todd

*Equilibrium and National Stereotyping in
"The Character of Holland"*

169

Diana Treviño Benet

"The Loyall Scot" and the Hidden Narcissus

192

John Rogers

The Great Work of Time: Marvell's Pastoral Historiography

207

John KlauseAnn Baynes Coiro*Michael C. Schoenfeldt

The Achievement of Andrew Marvell: Excerpts from a Panel Discussion

233

Notes on the Contributors

249

Index of Works Cited

253