

TABLE OF CONTENTS

List of Maps and Figures	ix
Preface. How I came to edit the memoir Shirley Ardener	xi
PART I INTRODUCTION – SHIRLEY ARDENER
1. Biographical Notes on Knutson and Waldau	3
2. The Manuscript	9
PART II KNUTSON'S MEMOIR: THE CAMEROON MOUNTAINS AND THE BIAFRAN SWAMPS
1. From Sweden to Cameroon	23
The project of the journey made by Mr. Waldau – Voyage Sweden-Camerouns – My companions – Arrival at Camerouns and Victoria – Settled by Mann's Spring – Sleep three months in open air – A new species of antelope – Difficult for the Bakweri to live above 10,000 feet – We build four small grass huts – How Bakweri hunt antelope – An old hermit elephant
2. Fauna and Flora	31
Many new species of birds and insects – The flying squirrel – The poisonous pigeon – Some old friends from Sweden – The grassy plains covered with flowers – The flourishing primeval forest – How the natives collect honey – Our garden at Mann's Spring – The war between Mapanja and Mokunda – Fog day and night – Without food for three days – Competition with my dog Hector – Captain Levin and the author travel over the mountains – Bomana and Bibundi – Capsized in the surf – Difficulties with Buea – Two thieves caught up a tree – A man killed by the explosion of a gun – A Buea hunter killed, his companions shot him – Result of palaver, peace with Buea people – Our pigs keep watch on the leopard
3. Misery and India-rubber	39
Rainy season – The antelopes leave the plains – Short of food and money – Fever – We leave the mountains – True-hearted Mapanja-men show us great hospitality, share house and food – Mr. Gustafsson and the author discover Landolophia Florida [sic],

- teach the natives how to collect it – Hard work in the forests – Mr. Ohlsson dies from sunstroke – A new species of elephant – Near death but nursed by my Bakweri-men – India-rubber trade increases – Economy better – We buy large territories from the natives*
4. The German Invasion 1884–1885 47
The Germans take the mountains in possession – We put our territories under the protectorate of the German Emperor – The band of music on board the German man-of-war ‘Bismark’ plays the Swedish national anthem – Captain V. Kärcher commander on board makes a speech proposing the health of Waldau and me, promising gold and green forests – Many title deeds – On command of His Majesty, Messrs. Leist and v. Puttkamer declare my properties for the Crown-land, without giving me any compensation
5. Travel in the Interior 1885 55
To Barombi ba Kotta and M’Bu – Mr. Waldau rescues a witch-woman – Large herds of elephants – Our route – Yellow Duke – 300 miles in twenty-five marching days – Many new towns discovered – The result of the voyage – The vegetation and the animals – Dr. Schwarz’s expedition – The snake in the bedroom – Dr. Schwarz’s companions sent home sick – Some troubles at Lisoka – Mr. Richardson at Bakundu – The king of Mambanda very ironical man – Demonstration in Ekkelevindi – Native hunters frighten Dr. S – Return to Cameroons – Gustafsson dies during my journey in the interior – The author climbs the small Cameroon peak and Monga ma Loba – Return to Europe with collections, March 1886
6. The Ancient Races 69
Ihle priest caste, Oron and Illoan – the first Bantu Invasion/Barombi, Batekkas, Boobees – The second Bantu invasion, Mocos and Biafframanni – The history of the Biafra – The kingdom Biafra – The Batekka prince who married the Biafran princess – The third Bantu invasion – The Banokko King Berriberri’s twelve sons founded ten still living tribes – The Ambosos known as terrible pirates – The Collebungos – Origin of the names Calabar and Rumbi – The Collepeople will soon be only a memory – Fiari people – A Mangrove Swamp people – The trade in the olden times – Cape Coast in 1650 – a Swedish colony – Summary of contents
7. Adventures on Cameroon Mountains and in Biaffran Swamps 79
Meme river discovered – King Bit Bit, King Mussakka of Kumba Lyongo – We erect a factory by his town at Bonge – The rainy season 1888 – Seventy-two hours in a surf boat – The Meme overflows and spoils merchandise – King Mussakka sticks to his word – The rich beggar king at Bokullo – Bombe’s flirt with a Bosama princess nearly cost the author’s life – Tit for tat – Case arranged with a few pounds – A gun fired and a man drowns – Bomboko-men threaten to

- burn Bibundi – Palaver settled – M’Boe, the master thief from Batoki – A Bandeng-slave threatens to shoot the author – Two and one-half hours in the sea – The natives and Crumen [Krumen] save the author’s life – A fearful night on the steamer Bibundi – The witchcraft palaver at Sanji-town – A German man-of-war ignites the town*
8. Religion and Customs of the Bakweri and Bomboko 101
Loba, Mokasse and Ovasse – Jengo, Malombi who commar’s [sic] elephants – Waldau and the author rescue several people sentenced for witchcraft – the poor mother of our friend M’Boa [Mbua] Mosikao, I carried her down to the English Baptist mission – She sings poetical threnodies and farewells to her town – A Kumbe slave’s conception of things – Birth – Children – Brothers and sisters – Parents – Education – Marriage – No slavery among the Bakweri – Laws – Punishments of theft and low habits – Laws of blood revenge – Letongo killed – Firearms not allowed amongst the Bakweri and Bomboko during war – The Bakweri at home – Medicine – N’jia wounded by his careless companion, cured by a skilful doctor – The love amongst the Bakweri – Drum signals, a telegraph code system – Anthropophagy – The sacrificial stone – A witchman’s difficult work and his criticism of the white race – A Bakweri man mourns his wife – Guardianship – The song of the Bakweri and Bomboko
9. The Slave Trade 125
History of the slave trade – King Attokkoro relates about the same – Slave-raids – Slave-ship in sight – Rio del Rey and Ambas Bay in the olden times – The bartering of black ivory – When the slave-ship sailed out of the river – Biafra considered to be one of the largest markets on the West African Coast – Collebonges, Amboses – Statistics – The last slave-ship at Rio del Rey
10. Black and White 135
A cruel customs official – A German philanthropist’s fate – A Victoria-man killed – The poor Popos – The blowing of a whistle – The enemies leave the river – A policeman’s difficulties – Two bullets through the author’s house – Old King Aqua – Insulted – Apology
11. The Missionaries, the Explorers and the Men I met at the Cameroons 145
The useful work of the English Baptist Missionaries – These pioneers were of great importance – Evangelic Missionary Society of Basel – Missionwork should be international – The debt of the white race to the black – Missionary control in Africa hitherto very useful – Without Missionaries no colonization on humane terms – Christmas 1883 – When the hulk ‘Louise’ caught fire – In the olden days – Champagne, cocktails and malaria – The wonderful parrot – King Williams treasure on Nicoll’s Island – A pitiful case – The captains on the steamers – Home and out

12.	The Future of the Cameroons More humane treatment of the natives. Import of spirits should be forbidden – How it ought to be in the future – The history of the Buea-palaver – von Puttkamer decides to annihilate Buea – v. Stetten and Dominik burn Buea at Christmas time 1894 – Terrible cruelties committed by black soldiers – King Kuva dies – On the ruins of Buea v. Puttkamer builds his residence – Cameroon Mountains ought to be a reserved territory	159
PART III LAND AND PLANTATIONS – SHIRLEY ARDENER
1.	Knutson and Waldau's Contracts with the Notables on the Cameroon Mountain	167
2.	Knutson's Legal Battles	175
3.	Waldau's Last Years in Cameroon	189
PART IV ALTERNATIVE PERSPECTIVES
1.	About the Ba-kwileh [Bakweri] People G. Valdau (transl. Johan Malmström)	197
2.	Epitome of Waldau's 'A Journey to the Country North of the Cameroon Mountain' Edwin Ardener and E.M. Chilver	211
3.	Sir Richard Burton's Visit to Mapanja, 1861–1862 (Extracts)	223
4.	George Thompson's Stay in Mapanja, 1871–1879 Shirley Ardener	237
5.	Stefan Sczolec-Rogozinski, 14.4.1861–1.12.96 Shirley Ardener	241
6.	Hugo Zöllner, Journalist (transl. Rosemary Frances, Ena Pedersen, Fiona Moore and Marion Berghahn)	245
	Bibliography	279
	Index	283