

CONTENTS

Foreword	Richard Sennett	xi
I.	A Model	1
1.	The Principle of Conservation of Theories	1
2.	The Principle of Conservation of Esthetic Theories	2
3.	Objective Change and a Shift in Punctuation	4
4.	Three Possible Interpretations	10
5.	Theory of Esthetic Types	13
6.	Art as Formalization	17
II.	Application of the Model	23
1.	The Relative Nature of the Distinction Between Styles and Objects	23
2.	The Change in Style: Its Two Directions	25
3.	The Change in Subject: Its Two Directions	39
III.	Puritanism in Modern Culture	43
1.	General Theory of Formal Puritanism: Beauty as Sequestration	43
2.	From the Prose of Effort to the Poetics of the Gift: The Esthetic of the Edelweiss	45
3.	The Structure of Puritan Discourse	48
4.	Puritanism's Trickery: From Content to Form Puritanism of Content; Puritanism of Form; Structuralism	52
5.	The Tricks of the "Accursed" Tradition Nietzsche; Proust; Breton	62
IV.	A Change of "Style": The Crisis in Functionalist Sensibility	73
1.	Functional Discourse and its Kitsch Counterpoint	74
2.	Functionalism as Puritanism	76

3. The Sociological, Technological, and Economic Conflict of Functionalism	77
4. The Change in Context	79
5. The Announcement of the Crisis	82
6. The Two Directions of Present-Day Revisionism	83
7. Technical Reaction: Neorationalism	85
8. Wild Reaction: Neoformalism	90
9. Conclusions	101
Image vs. Form: Baroque Spiritualism in Advanced Capitalist Society; Dialectic of Planning and Realization
V. A Change of Subject: The Crisis in Avant-Garde Sensibility	113
1. The "Position" of Art	113
2. Messages Cold and Hot: Art as a "Temperate" Message	115
3. Contour and Outline	119
4. Thaw	122
5. Flood	125
VI. The Technical Schism	129
1. Mass Production and Homogeneity: Solutions and Means	130
2. New Version of Formalism: Style, Technique, and Environment; Creation of Artifacts and Modification of Situations	132
VII. The Wild Schism	139
1. The Schism Off Stage	142
A Cool Medium for a Hot Situation; From the Authenticity of the Object to the Authenticity of the Attitude
2. The Schism on the Stage	150
Ritual and Celebration; The Origins of Tragedy; From Tragedy to Theater: Thematic Plausibility and Scenic Segregation; A Short History of Stage Space; The Renaissance Continuation and the Medieval Alternative; Modern Compromises
3. The Schism Beyond the Stage—New Theater	194
Brakes Off in the Garage; "You Should Participate"; The Immediate and Ephemeral as "Properly" Theatrical; Promiscuity as an

	Antisymbolic Device; The Small Group as a Laboratory
4.	From Formalism to Dandyism Between "Happenings" and "Concepts"; Cultural Criticism and the Antiformal Instinct; The Risks of Widespread Experimentalism; The Suspension of Art and Morality; The Avant-Garde as Behavior; The Last Refuge: Critique of the Commune; The Culmination of One Bourgeois Victory and the Crisis of Another: Expressivity and Informality	203
5.	"Mannerisms" Political Manifestos and Manuals of Urbanity; Criticism and the Usages of the "Society of the Spectacle"; The Meeting of Style and Culture—Worship; An Attempt at Interpretation: Unified and Polyvalent Control	216
	Notes	233
	Index	255