

Contents

Preface	xix
Acknowledgements	xxi
Chronology	xxiii
Genealogical Tables	xxviii

1	My Will is This	1
	An asthma. Vanbrugh's will and death. A life of incident and sometimes of drama. Playwright and architect. Family, friends and patrons. Sources.
2	To Giles and Elizabeth, a Son	8
	London before the Great Fire. City merchants and their houses. Foreigners and religious refugees. The London Dutch. The Vanbrugh family. John's birth.
3	Lords and Ladies, Merchants and Gentlemen	17
	Grandfather Gillis Vanbrugh; uncles and aunts. The Carletons and John's mother. Her first marriage to Thomas Barker. Carleton connections with the nobility.
4	Exodus	26
	The Great Plague. The Great Fire. The Vanbrughs in Richmond and Chester. The sugar-baker story. Sugar in London and Liverpool.
5	Numbers	34

- Sugar in Chester. The Henthornes. Chester records. Dissenters and sympathisers. Sir Willoughby Aston. The pressure cooker. John Vanbrugh's siblings. Giles's will. Education. The Garencieres. Giles's letter to the Bishop of London.
- 6 A Journey to Nowhere 46
- The wine trade and other family connections. Myths of study in France. London in 1681. An impressionable lad of seventeen.
- 7 Creditable Stations 53
- Lord Clarendon and Lord Huntingdon. The king's shilling. Marching orders. A Catholic army and administration. The Glorious Revolution. An ill-starred journey.
- 8 Prison 63
- Piecing the story together. True and false accounts. Efforts to obtain release. Transfer from Calais to Vincennes. An appeal to Saint-Germain. The Duliviers. Smuggled letters. The Bastille. Money in prison. Vanbrugh's plan. Further complications in England and France. At liberty in Paris. The effects of imprisonment.
- 9 Distinguished Service 77
- Giles Vanbrugh's death. His children and nephews. The Duchy of Lancaster. Peregrine and other Berties. Whiggism and the Kit-Cat Club. Lord Somers and other members. Vanbrugh at sea and in London.
- 10 The Restoration Stage 91
- Ideas about the theatre: licensing and licence. Davenant's operas. The King's and Duke's Companies. Forestage and deep stage: scenery. Women on the stage. Travesty parts. More moral objections. Dryden's The Kind Keeper. Seduction in The Relapse. Ladies in the audience. Participation. Unruly behaviour.
- 11 The Triumph of Virtue 108
- Colley Cibber. Betterton's secession from the United Company. Love's Last Shift: its origin and its plot. 'Purity' and sentiment: the comedy of tears. Cibber's suggestiveness.

12 Realism and Relapse 118

Vanbrugh's entry to the theatre. Origins of The Relapse as a response to Cibber. Similarities between the two plays. Vanbrugh's double plot. His use of language. 'The most easy careless writer'. A tendency to blank verse: the views of Dryden and Collier. Vanbrugh's writing more artful than it appears. The creation of Lord Foppington.

13 The Art of Adaptation 132

Æsop. Translation and alteration. Blank verse again. The role of music. Not entirely an edifying tale. The two sparrows. Æsop II. The Country House. Old and modern definitions of farce. Improvements on Dancourt.

14 The Provok'd Wife 144

Possible origins of the play. Criticisms of the plot. A play with an architectural structure. Its more serious aspects. A great leap in the dark. The low characters. Supposed improbabilities. Moral uncertainty. Contemporary reactions.

15 The Provok'd Moralist 158

Dennis on Jeremy Collier. An outlawed preacher and High Church puritan, not a man of letters. Suspicions of his motives. His targets. The new audience. Was the stage morally justifiable? Screw-faced saints. Blackmore. Reforming societies. Licences and blind eyes. Collier's effect.

16 A Longer View 167

Vanbrugh's Vindication. Protecting the ladies. Collier's absurdity. Profane words. Scripture and religion. The clergy. Moral and æsthetic aspects. Restoration character names. Other responses to Collier. More lasting critical consequences. The Pilgrim and The False Friend.

17 Intermezzo: How to Write a Comedy 183

The functions of comedy. Dryden's views. Farquhar. A comedy written by rules. The limits of regularity. Moral defences of the stage. Steele's The Funeral. The Lying Lover. Sentimental comedy.

- 18 Without Thought or Lecture 193
- The Castle Howard obelisk and Lady Irwin's poem. Patron and client. Changes in remuneration. Hawksmoor at Castle Howard and Blenheim. Talman's lawsuit against Lord Carlisle. Carlisle's patronage of Vanbrugh. Architecture a gentlemanly pursuit. Roger North. Hawksmoor's indispensability. His training and character. William Vanbrugh. The decision to become an architect.
- 19 When a Design was Chosen and Followed 204
- Dacres and Howards. The Earls of Carlisle. Old Henderskelfe. Carlisle as Pater Patriæ. The new Whig palaces. Carlisle's decision to build. Talman's methods and his design. Garden plans. Vanbrugh's introduction. His Christmas letter. The dome. Afterthoughts and responsibility. Earlier domes. A building like an orange-house. State rooms. Diverse messages in architecture. The completion of Castle Howard. The bow window room. The service courts.
- 20 A Goose Pie 222
- House fires. Old Whitehall. Vanbrugh's request to build in the ruins. His first visible work. London gossip. A vicious attack. Swift's poems. The form of the house. How to make a goose pie. The uniqueness of the house. Vanbrugh appointed Comptroller in place of Talman.
- 21 Comptroller and Herald 236
- The Comptroller's duties. The end of Vanbrugh's army service. His business abilities. Opposition to his appointment as a herald. His induction. Tonson's purchases in Amsterdam. Julius Cæsar's Works. London life. Vanbrugh the traveller. Barn Elms. The Great Storm. Henry Winstanley. Dissuasives from the playhouse and from building. The Kensington Orangery affair. Vanbrugh and Wren.
- 22 Towards a New Theatre 253
- The new company of comedians. Vanbrugh's playhouse.

Healing the split. Kit-Cat support. The Italian Opera. Purcell. Addison's Rosamond. Opening the theatre. The 1705 spring season. Defects in the new theatre. Illusory vastness: a triumphal piece of architecture. Changes in staging. The auditorium improved. The character of Vanbrugh's building. The Confederacy and The Mistake.

23 Towards a New Architecture 272

Competition with Talman at Welbeck. The designs compared. Grander aspirations. The first idea of Blenheim. Glorification. Old Woodstock. Rosamund. Obelisks. The Blenheim site. Vanbrugh and Capability Brown. Blenheim modelled on Castle Howard. The importance of drawings in the design process. Distinguishing Vanbrugh from Hawksmoor. The Hawksmoor style and how Vanbrugh met it. Who designed the Kensington Orangery. The first stone at Blenheim.

24 Building Blenheim 295

Stones and men. An alteration. The Blenheim office at work. Further changes. The model. Wren's opinion. Lord Ailesbury. The Great Frost. Expansive economy. Courts, greenhouses and galleries. Repairing the Old Manor. The architect's fee and his needs. Conflict with the Duchess. The change from Doric to Corinthian. Trophies. A monument of ingratitude. Mrs Masham. The cabinet crisis. Godolphin dismissed. The Blenheim masons laid off. The Marlboroughs dismissed.

25 Venture and Vacation 316

The visit to Hanover. Delay in departing. The Elector and his family. The first meeting. The investiture and the celebrations. Vanbrugh's return. Swiney takes over the Queen's Theatre. Further management difficulties. The two companies rejoined. Vanbrugh again in control. Opera economies. Swiney takes over once more. Death and funeral of Vanbrugh's mother.

26 The Castle Air 331

Audley End. The south front of Kimbolton. The castle air. William Coleman. Further work at Kimbolton. Galilei.

Chargate. Kings Weston. Chimneys. Plainness as an aesthetic positive. Reasons for preserving Old Woodstock Manor. The Great Bridge.

- 27 Out of Office 352
- The Fifty New Churches. Vanbrugh a Commissioner. His proposals and Wren's. Designs for St James's and Kensington. The Woodstock letter: leaked and printed. Attempts at salvage. Loss of the Comptrollership. Away from London. The convenience of Castle Howard. Costumes and properties. Vanbrugh's grant of arms. Loss of the Garter reversion. Political and financial recovery. Grimsthorpe. Return of the Marlboroughs. Correspondence with the Duchess. Her scheme against Vanbrugh. His resignation. Glassmaker Moore.
- 28 A Chatelaine 372
- Surveyor at Greenwich Hospital. Knighthood. The green village. A rented house. York gossip: Lady Mary Wortley Montagu. Mrs Yarburgh. The Heslington Lady. Christmas at Castle Howard. Nottingham Castle. The wedding at York: more premeditated than at first appears. A successful marriage. The lease of a field. Vanbrugh Castle.
- 29 The Cuckoo in the Nest 384
- A second portrait and its pair. Strokes of philosophy. Reform in the Office of Works. The new Board. William Benson: his appointment as Surveyor. His misconduct and dismissal. The House of Lords. Sir Thomas Hewett. Vanbrugh, approaching sixty, seeks a sinecure. Work at St James's and Hampton Court.
- 30 Friends at Court 398
- The insecurity of patronage. The Blenheim lawsuits. The Duchess of Marlborough appeals to the Lords. Vanbrugh's Justification. Whig aesthetics: Shaftesbury. Faults found with Blenheim. Letters to Newcastle. The Holbein Gate. Dean Jones. More trouble with the mail. The King's Progress of 1722.
- 31 Unfinished Business 411

Stagnation in the theatre. Steele's The Conscious Lovers: a Georgian play. Duelling. Terence and Plautus. The Spectator on comedy: its proper subjects. Steele's patent. Selling The Conscious Lovers. Dennis's strictures. Humour banished from the stage. Parallel reactions to Vanbrugh's plays and his architecture. A Journey to London. Cibber's completion. Vanbrugh's intentions.

32 Sir John at Home 432

The Account Book. Domestic staff. Extensions at Whitehall and Greenwich. The houses in the field. Charles Vanbrugh. Sale of the theatre. Investments. The South Sea Company. The White Towers. Two sons. Inoculation for smallpox. Domestic life. Arthur and other draughtsmen. Vanbrugh's sisters. Southwell. Travels and homecomings.

33 A Portico Each Way 447

Colen Campbell. Vitruvius Britannicus. Leoni. The Palladian manifesto. Hewett and Galilei. Italy preferred to France. Eastbury. Lumley Castle. Seaton Delaval. Grimsthorpe. Vanbrugh and gardens. Surveyor of Gardens and Waters. Stowe. The Castle Howard landscape. Obelisks. Wray Wood. Vanbrugh and Hawksmoor make designs for a temple. Vanbrugh's design chosen. Pressure to complete the house. The Temple and Palladio.

34 Between Jest and Earnest 471

London traffic. The paving petition. The Comptroller's advice on building matters. Vanbrugh's seriousness. Jest and earnest. Restoration morality. Altered scenes in The Provok'd Wife. Reality and illusion in the theatre. Vanbrugh sells his Herald's office. His stoicism: his character and Hawksmoor's. Colbert's brave designs. Shaftesbury and the British style. Vanbrugh's 'school' and influence. Ordnance architecture. Omissions from the Account Book. A tipple and a drink of water. The last sight of Blenheim. Comments on matrimony: Lady Irwin and Jacob Tonson. Young Charles's life and death. Vanbrugh's widow. An honest-hearted, real good man.

Appendix A: List of Works	515
Appendix B: Vanbrugh's Letters	517
Appendix C: Vanbrugh's Coat of Arms	526
Appendix D: A True Character of the Prince of Wales's Poet	527
Appendix E: The Bow Window Room at Castle Howard	530
Appendix F: Spring Garden	534
Appendix G: Letters, Mostly Unpublished	536

Glossary 543

Index 547