

Contents

Acknowledgements	page	vii
1 One and many		1
The pluralist chorus		1
Get lost		10
The uses of monism		13
The daemon		14
In praise of transcendence		19
2 The Copernican Revolution		24
From sovereignty to legitimacy		24
Cognition as norm		27
A decoding operation		29
Description into prescription		32
The empiricist imperative		37
A world par provision		39
3 All-too-benign judges		46
Selection and re-endorsement		46
When in Rome		47
The great ascent		50
Carte Blanche		52
4 Hanging judges		56
Selectors		56
The ghost		58
The machine		63
The skeleton		66
5 The baselines		71
The ghost against the machine		71
The problem of realism and the concept of experience		73
The problem of idealism and the concept of structure		80
The incompetent ghost		83

	The sapient infant	88
	Recapitulation	95
	The politics of familiarity, or the human use of human beings	98
	Summary	107
6	A partial convergence	109
	Cohabitation	109
	Epistemic convergence	113
	Ethical convergence	116
	Pigs and platonists	118
	The manner of the convergence	120
	The regularity of nature	124
7	Skeleton and backlash	128
	The logician's way to mysticism	128
	The backlash prepared	132
	On its head!	135
	Let a hundred flowers bloom, and Instant God	139
	Peddlers of antiques and omnibus populism	146
8	The savage mind	149
	The great frontier	149
	Drunk or sober	150
	Singly or together	152
	Four criteria	158
9	Identity regained	168
	The political philosophy of science	168
	The greatest thinker of them all	184
	Kant and Weber	188
	Ironic cultures and the Meaning Industry	191
	The second secularisation and le Self-Service	195
	Truncated evolutionism	200
	The role of knowledge	202
	Index	209