

H.D.

The Life and Work of an American Poet

Janice S. Robinson

Houghton Mifflin Company
Boston 1982

Contents

Acknowledgments vii

Illustrations xi

Preface xiii

Chronology xvii

I. THE TEA ROOM

1. A Moravian Childhood in Bethlehem 3
2. Hilda and Ezra in Pennsylvania 10
3. E.P. and H.D. in London 21
4. "Priapus" and "Hermes" 29
5. Rebellious Marriage 40
6. Hawk as Hawk and Hawk as Persona 48
7. A Feminist Stance 56
8. The Secret Doctrine of the Image 62
9. "Orion Dead": The Logic of Imagism 70

II. THE TEMPLE

10. Imagism and Moravianism 81
11. The Center of the Circle: H.D. as Poet and Muse 91
12. The Sacrifice of Iphigeneia 99
13. The War Poems 107
14. Poetry of Rural England 121
15. In the Gloire 132

16.	Tracks in the Sand	142
17.	Tenderness	158
18.	The Paternity of the Child	170
19.	"Pilate's Wife"	181
20.	The Escaped Cock	188
21.	The Ankh and the Cross	199
22.	The Priestess of Isis	206
III. CROSSING THE LINE
23.	"Notes on Thought and Vision"	229
24.	The Man on the Boat	235
25.	Writing on the Wall	246
26.	The Road to Freud	257
27.	The Professor	273
28.	To Bryher from Vienna	278
29.	D. H. Lawrence Everywhere	286
30.	Crossing the Line	292
31.	The Walls Do Not Fall	303
32.	Tribute to the Angels	316
33.	The Flowering of the Rod	326
IV. HELEN
34.	Coming Out	337
35.	Helen and Achilles in Egypt	362
36.	The Argument of "Pallinode"	369
37.	Helen and Paris	380
38.	The Spiral Shell and the Spiral Stair	387
39.	Theseus and Helen	394
40.	The Moon	405
41.	"Eidolon"	411
42.	Helen and Odysseus	420
	Notes	437
	Selected Bibliography	469
	Index	481