

The Universal Autobiography
of
Ralph Waldo Emerson

BY

ERIK INGVAR THURIN

CWK GLEERUP LUND

CONTENTS

Chapter One

THE AMBIGUITY OF EMERSON'S WORK

Emerson's Professed Literary Aspiration: A Preliminary Analysis	1
1. Originality and Universality	1
2. The Poet as Reconciler and Liberator	8
Emerson's Literary Aspiration: A Second Look	13
Interpreting the Interpreter: Emerson's Method of Indirection	16

Chapter Two

THE UNIVERSAL SEXUAL DICHOTOMY

Emerson's Failure to Marry Heaven and Earth in Terms of Male and Female	25
Sexual Polarization and Emerson's Platonistic Oscillation Between Monism and Dualism	28
A Closer Look at Emerson's Monism at the Human Level	33
1. Emerson and Alcmaeon's Decade	33
2. The Problem of Feminine Beauty	38
3. Emerson's Tragic Vision	46
Monism Turning Into Dualism: Woman and the Devil	49
1. The American Adam	50
2. Emerson's Angle of Vision	51
Full-Fledged Dualism: Woman as the Devil	52
1. The Mermaid Dichotomy	52
2. The Conventional Devil	53

Chapter Three

HEAVENLY AFFILIATION AND EARTHLY PARENTS

Ambiguous Anthropomorphism: The Breasts and Womb of God	55
Autobiographical and Biographical	60
1. The Lord God and the Parish Minister	60
2. The Goddess and Madame Emerson	63
Motherhood and Womanhood: Emerson and Hamlet	66
Two Ways of Disposing of the Family Situation	81
1. Emerson and Plato's Republic	81
2. Emerson and the Kingdom of Jesus	86

Chapter Four

THE UNION SPIRITUAL AND PHYSICAL (MARRIAGE IN THE LITERAL SENSE)

Marriage and Dialectic: The Orthodox Phase	90
1. Emerson and Plato's Symposium	90
2. Montaigne's Two Societies	94
3. Shakespeare and Jesus	97
The Revisionist Phase: Emerson's Attempt to Apply Platonism to Marriage	99
1. Marriage as Separation and Divorce: Emerson's Essay on "Love"	99
2. Plutarch and the Essay on "Love"	103
3. Milton and the Needs of an Angelic Soul	105
4. Swedenborg's "Fine Platonic Development of the Science of Marriage"	114

Chapter Five

LIBERATION FROM TERRENE CONCERNS

The Search For Liberating Gods	120
The Imaginary Saadi and "Intellectual Nomadism"	123
Emerson and the Prefaces to the Gulistan	130
Intellectual Freedom and the Use of Cupbearers: A Challenge to Hera	133
The Passing of Beatrice and the Beginning of a New Life	142

Chapter Six

PSEUDO-POLARITY (THE MARRIAGE OF HEAVEN AND HEAVEN)

The Need For Counterfeit Sexual Polarity in Male Friendship	151
Emerson Assuming the Feminine Role	156
1. The Underlying Image: Emerson's "Attitude of Reception"	156
2. The Reader and the Spermatic Words of the Author	159
3. Hercules and Iole: Hero-Worship and Sexual Polarization	160
4. Young Friends and Passive Masters	163
5. The Friend as a Mohawk Chief	165
6. Big-Endians and Little-Endians	167
Rebellion Against the Attitude of Reception at the Human Level	170
1. The Theory of Beautiful Enemyship	172
2. The Friend as the Messiah	175

Chapter Seven

POLARIZATION AND THE PARADISE WITHIN

The Androgyne	180
1. Men of Genius and Gentle Men	180
2. The Significance of Emerson's Man-Woman Schemes	185
3. The Case of Margaret Fuller	191
4. The Question of Emerson's Own Man-Womanhood	195
The New Narcissus	201
1. The World as Self-Projection	201
2. Self-Acquaintance and Self-Possession	203
Populous Solitude	205
1. Unipolar Friendship	205
2. Lyrical Glances	206
3. Distant Love	207
4. The Heaven of Letters	211
5. The Heaven of Invention	213

Chapter Eight

THE MARRIAGE OF HEAVEN AND HELL

Four Celestial-Infernal Symbols	215
1. Apollo	216
2. Angels	217
3. Bacchus	220
4. Fairies	221
Emerson and Blake	225
The Prophet of Antichrist	232
1. Love and Power	232
2. Symbolism and Charity	234
3. The Problem of Salvation	235
4. Universal Love and Universal Hate	237
5. The Heroes of Plutarch	240
6. Heroism and Plotinus	245
7. Michelangelo and "the Perfect Adam"	247
8. Jesus as the Prophet of "He That Shall Come"	248

Chapter Nine

EMERSON'S TWO FACES

Emerson and Nietzsche: Two Brother Souls	251
Formidable Innocence?	255
Another View of Emerson	262
1. The Riddle of the Sphinx	263
2. Transcendence of Self	266
3. Life is a Dream	270

NOTES 275