

FICTIONS OF LABOR
William Faulkner and the South's
Long Revolution

RICHARD GODDEN
University of Keele

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	page ix
Introduction	1
1 Quentin Compson: Tyrrhenian Vase or Crucible of Race?	8
2 Absalom, Absalom! , Haiti, and Labor History: Reading Unreadable Revolutions	49
3 Absalom, Absalom! and Rosa Coldfield: Or, “What Is in the Dark House?”	80
4 The Persistence of Thomas Sutpen: Absalom, Absalom! , Time, and Labor Discipline	115
5 Forget Jerusalem, Go to Hollywood – “ To Die. Yes. To Die? ” (A Coda to Absalom, Absalom!)	179
Afterword	233
Notes	235
Bibliography of Works Cited	273
Index	285