

Nietzsche, Henry James, and the Artistic Will

STEPHEN DONADIO

New York
OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS
1978

Contents

- I The Immediate Context, 3
  - 1. The Appearance of the Master, 3
  - 2. Transcendental Relations, 8
  - 3. "Historical" and "Inner" Culture:
Thomas Sergeant Perry's View of Nietzsche, 17
  - 4. James, Bourget, and Nietzsche, 19
  - 5. James and "Vernon Lee," 22
  - 6. "Vernon Lee" and Nietzsche, 24
  - 7. The Sacred Will:
Nietzsche, William James, and Emerson, 32

- II The Background of Assumptions, 46
  - 1. The Notion of Absolute Culture; Art as a Means of Achieving Freedom from the Limitations of Experience, 49
  - 2. The Prerogatives of Divinity; the Artist as Superman, 55
  - 3. The Self as a Work of Art, 59

- III American Identity, Universal Culture,
and the Unbounded Self, 62
  - 1. "The Man without a Country," 63
  - 2. "The Heir of All the Ages," 73
  - 3. "Der gute Europäer," 84
  - 4. The "Highest Specimens" of Humanity, 94
  - 5. The "Vessel of Consciousness," 100
  - 6. The "Human, Superhuman" Paradox, 110

IV "Point of View" and Perspectivism, 119

V The Artist of the Real, 182

VI The Alchemy of Opposites, 243

Abbreviations, 263

Notes, 267

Bibliography, 311

Index, 335